Chas. A. Cameron Chosen Liberal Standard Bearer

District and General News

Ed. Roach, President of the South Hastings Liberal Association Conducts Meeting

Five Nominated—Two Withdrew

G. Harold Bolton, who for the past few months has been acting as business administrator at the Ontario School for the Deaf at Belleville, has been transferred to the Department of Health.

Perth: Lanark County's centenarian, Mrs. Mary Ferguson McIntyre, Dalhousie Lake, is dead, at the age of 100 years 11 months and 5 days. She died at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Geddes, 23 miles west of Perth. Mrs. McIntyre was born in North Sherbrooke Township, Lanark County, during the early days of settlement. In her life she saw the original log cabins gradually changed into more comfortable farm homes and witnessed the changes, from time to time, in farming methods. Her husband, Peter McIntyre, died 25 years ago. Mrs. McIntyre knit five pairs of mittens and sent them to the Dionne quintuplets last fall.

Thompson Girl Stated Insane

After three Ontario hospital doctors had testified that Marjorie Thompson, 19-year-old girl of Wooler, was insane. Magistrate W. A. Campbell adjourned the preliminary hearing on Wednesday last of a double murder charge against the girl, the victims being her brother Neil, 8, and sister Ina, 11, shot with a .22 rifle.

The court was asked to adjourn the case for a week by A. Cochran, K.C., acting for the crown counsel, so the facts could be laid before the attorney-general's department for the purpose of obtaining an order from the lieutenant-governor to place the accused in an institution pending further consideration.

Dr. C. H. Lewis of the Ontario hospital, who had treated the accused in March, 1934, at Belleville mental health clinic, told the court that, in his opinion, she was insane.

Dr. Stuart of the Ontario hospital, Toronto, agreed with Dr. Lewis that the accused was insane within the meaning of the criminal code. Her recovery would never be complete or permanent, he felt.

Dr. G. Senn, of Whitby hospital was of the same opinion.

Fred Coron, on the way to answer a fire alarm on Friday fell on the sidewalk, broke five ribs from the spine and cracked one of his shoulder blades. He was taken to Belleville hospital.

J. H. Hill was chosen Whip of the Ontario Conservative opposition at a caucus meeting on Tuesday.

Charles A. Cameron, barrister of Belleville was selected Liberal standard bearer for the riding of South Hastings at forthcoming Dominion election at a convention held in Belleville on Friday afternoon with representations present from every part of the riding. At the conclusion of the balloting the choice of Mr. Cameron was made unanimous by the convention, A. B. Collins and Mayor Cory of Trenton moving and seconding that motion.

The meeting was most orderly and conducted in an efficient manner by Edward Roach, Deseronto, president of the association; A. H. Ketcheson, secretary, and their energetic executive. During the counting of the ballots R. W. Gray, M.P., for Lambton, addressed the gathering on the topic of the day and was enthusiastically received.

When the meeting was called to order by the president shortly after two-thirty, the auditorium of the city hall was packed with delegates and interested parties in the proceedings. Those unable to find seats lined up against the walls and the interest was so manifest that nearly all stayed until the final item of business was transacted. After the conditions under which the convention was to be proceeded with, the president called for nominations. He explained that all candidates would be given fifteen minutes each to lay their claims of candidature before the delegates and that the balloting would be by elimination, the low man dropping out and would so continue until the high man had a clear majority over all contestants. The committee announced there could be 247 ballots cast and only three were absent, when the first ballot was taken and 243 voted the second time.

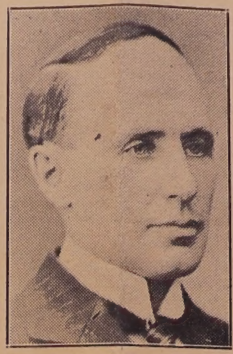

Those nominated were: A. B. Collins, C. A. Cameron, H. R. Cory, P. C. MacLaurin, G. O. Tice.

Mr. Gordon and Miss Marjorie Thompson entertained a number of their friends on Friday. Games, music and dancing whiled away a pleasant evening. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. C. Thompson.

Obituary

Mrs. Robert Geddes
 Phyllis E. Allison, daughter of David C. Allison and Jane Thompson, beloved wife of Robert Geddes, who had been in ill health for some years, passed away Sunday evening at her home on Edmon Street.

She was born in Tyendinaga and spent the major part of her life in Napanee where the family later made their home. She lived in New York City for some years before her marriage to Mr. Robt. Geddes, and has lived in Deseronto since that time.

Mrs. Geddes was of a quiet and charitable disposition and always took a great interest in church work. She will be greatly missed by a wide circle of relatives and friends. The funeral takes place from her late residence at 2 o'clock this (Wednesday) afternoon.

Hugh Stevenson

Hugh Stevenson, well-known former official of both the Toronto and International Typographical Unions, died at his home, 22 Hamby Ave., Toronto, on Sunday, in his 70th year. The former past-president of the local printers' union had been sick for nearly three months.

Mr. Stevenson was born in Belleville, Ontario. He served his apprenticeship in this city, and then went to Toronto, about 45 years ago. He was first employed in Toronto by the Empire, but in late years had been in the composing room at the Globe.

For ten years, he was a typographical union delegate to the American Federation of Labor as well as being organizer for the International Union in Canada. About 25 years ago, he entered the field as a Labor candidate against E. B. Osler.

He was a member of Bay of Quinte A.F. & A.M., Royal Arch Masons and Oddfellows. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Frances Stevenson and two brothers, R. J. and T. A. Stevenson, of Toronto.

Mr. Stevenson learned his trade in the Belleville Ontario office. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. Stevenson and was well known in this district. Interment will be in Norway Cemetery, Toronto.

Bandits Flee When Bank Manager Offers Resistance

Shot Barely Misses Banker As Robbers Fled Without Loot —Stolen Taxi Used

Was Former Deseronto Lad

After an all-night hunt in a driving snowstorm, Vancouver police continued search all day for two young men who attempted to hold up the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Victoria Drive and Forty-First Avenue at 1.45 p.m. Thursday.

Foiled by a show of resistance by Mr. Harty W. Morden, manager, the thieves fled after firing one shot. The stolen taxi in which they escaped has not been found.

Mr. Morden has a bullet-torn coat sleeve to show where the one shot fired during the attempt narrowly missed him.

Fred Dewhurst, taxi driver, 316 East Second, was an involuntary witness of the attempt. The two thieves, having commandeered his taxi, marched him into the bank between them. One of them drew his gun and walked to the ledger desk; the other drew a gun and covered Mr. J. W. Anderson, teller.

"Indeed, Sir," Replied Manager

The thug facing the branch manager announced:

"This is a stickup. No foolin'." "Indeed, sir!" exclaimed the manager, as he ducked for cover behind the desk bearing heavy ledgers and backed toward the drawer where his gun lay. The man covering the teller called to his companion. "Shoot!"

Apparently the gun jammed, for Mr. Morden heard the bandit curse as he fingered the mechanism. Then the man covering Anderson walked over. In the meantime Anderson was backing out of the cage, the door swinging shut and locking as he left.

Apparently becoming alarmed, the two armed men began to back toward the door. The first bandit, having adjusted his gun, fired point blank at Mr. Morden. The bullet ripped along the top of the desk and splintered, one portion passing through his coat sleeve and the other lodging in the wall.

"I was lucky," was the laconic comment of Mr. Morden, discussing the experience afterward.

Taxi Driver Forced to Assist

The taxi driver was still in the bank and moved towards Mr. Morden.

"Are you another stickup man?" demanded Mr. Morden.

"No, I'm the taxi-driver," replied Dewhurst.

Dewhurst reported to police that he picked up two men at Broadway and Granville street at 1.10 p.m. They ordered him to drive to Thirty-Sixth and Fraser. On arrival there one of the men held a gun against the back of his head and forced him into the

The Y.W.A. of United Church was entertained at the home of Mrs. Ross Perry on Tuesday evening. About thirty were present. After the business was discussed it was decided to hold a picnic social in February. The evening entertainment consisted of two interesting contests. Mrs. J. B. Hough and Mrs. Irvine were the lucky winners of the one and Mrs. T. Tunncliffe and Mrs. A. Rendell of the other. At 10.30 a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Hoare, Mrs. Hough, Mrs. Blackwell and Mrs. Dawson. The next social evening in February will be held at the home of Mrs. J. B. Hough.

Marguerite McCabe fell on an icy walk and broke a leg.

Mrs. A. Rendell and Mrs. R. Perry were in Belleville on Friday.

L. & A. Medical Society Officers

At the annual meeting of the Lennox and Addington Medical Society, held in the town hall at Napanee on January 16, the following officers were elected for the year 1935:

- Pres., Dr. T. M. Galbraith of Napanee.
- Vice-Pres., Dr. A. R. Mounce, Newburgh.
- Sec.-Treas., Dr. J. M. Munro, Odessa.
- Executive Committee: Dr. F. C. Wilson, Napanee; Dr. J. B. Willoughby, Napanee; Dr. Hall, Napanee; Dr. W. C. Blackwell, Deseronto, and Dr. Whytock of Yarker.

rear of the vehicle, while the other took the wheel and drove to the bank.

When they arrived at the bank a street car was stopped in front of the entrance. They proceeded past the bank, turned around at the next intersection, and drew up to the bank as the street car was pulling away.

The bandits ordered Dewhurst, under threat of death, to walk between them and make no noise. He was covered the entire time they were in the bank.

Both bandits are described as aged about 24, 5 feet 10 inches, and each weighing about 160 pounds.—Vancouver Sun.

Editor's Note: Mr. Morden is a former Deseronto boy and attended high school here a number of years ago. He will be remembered by a number of his former friends and school mates.

J. Bronson Elected Warden of Hastings County

There were three contestants for the Wardenship of Hastings County, namely: Reeve W. West, Stirling; Reeve A. Burke, Sidney Township, and Reeve J. J. Bronson, Mayo Township. On the first ballot Reeve Bronson was elected. He has been a member of the county council longer than either of his opponents and his claim that the north had not had the wardenship for several years carried much weight. Wardens for the past six years have been: 1929, George A. Bailey, Rawdon; 1930, Col. R. Vanderwater, Sidney; 1931, Chas. Thompson, Madoc; 1932, R. M. Mitchell, Thurlow; 1933, Walter Whytock, Madoc; 1934, Geo. E. Jordan, Hungerford.

Phillip Bennet Found Dead in His Own Garage

Phillip Bennet, 58, resident of Pointe Anne for the last 22 years, was found dead in his car in the garage on Thursday, a victim of carbon monoxide in his home stalling. "Goodbye, no one it to blame but myself."

The body was found by a son, Frank, and the doors of the garage were tightly closed and the engine of the car running and all windows closed. Bennet was slumped in the front seat. Dr. W. W. Boyce, coroner for the district, with Constable John Kelly, investigated and it was decided an inquest unnecessary.

The late Mr. Bennet has been in ill-health for some time and grieved over the loss of his wife by death a few months ago.

"So many people, so many thoughts, each according to his own lights."

Wednesday, January 30, 1935.

Those characters you hear on the "Uncle David" program over CKCL, Toronto, are taken from real life. All these characters are played by Frank Gilbert, and the names given them are the names of his relatives and friends in Hastings. After last Sunday's broadcast, 180 letters were received by Gilbert's relatives in Hastings from friends who had said they had heard them on the air. Last fall we had occasion to visit the home of friends in Hastings, where Mr. Gilbert was spending a vacation. For our benefit he portrayed several of his characters in "Uncle David."

The Literary Digest Poll at Queen's University on the question: "Do you believe that Canada could stay out of another great war?" was 463 affirmative and 293 negative votes. On another question "Would you bear arms for Canada in the invasion of borders of another country?" the result was Yes, 87; No, 652. Thus the youth of today and the citizens of tomorrow have spoken, and we believe it is the mind of the majority of youth today.

H. Hohner of Tavistock has invented a two way telephone between his barn and home, made from a couple of radio speakers, some wire and batteries. From the barn Mr. Hohner can hear the clatter of pans in the kitchen, the voice of his wife and even the ticking of the clock while he is in the barn milking. It only remains for Mr. Hohner to attach a television plate, then his wife can also be the remote control boss of the barn.

When Napanee defeated Belleville at the latter place last Friday night by the score of 10-9 in overtime, Tompkins was the best man on the ice for Napanee scoring four goals. Each of the Jacksons also scored a goal. So with six goals to their credit this Deseronto line of Jackson, Jackson and Tompkins is certainly the backbone of the Napanee team.

Where do you suggest a good spot to hold a mammoth Deseronto Tradesmen's Picnic? The desirability of holding one is now engaging the attention of the Directors of the Deseronto Chamber of Commerce.

Belleville has its on Victoria Day (May 24th), Kingston on the Kings' Birthday (June 8th), Napanee celebrates on Dominion Day (July 1st). Why not Deseronto hold its celebration on Civic Holiday (First Monday in August)?

The motto of the Deseronto Chamber of Commerce is "We Serve Our Community" and it is doing its utmost to attain that end. The illuminated Christmas tree in the park, the Yuletide street decorations and assistance in providing a safe skating rink for the enjoyment of young and old is the result of Chamber of Commerce energy and public spirit.

To some it would appear that to talk about a picnic to be held in August is a bit early, but to make it a success there is a lot of thought needed and a lot of work to be done.

We ought to make a real day of it: baseball, aquatic and ground sports, a midway operated by local talent and refreshment booths conducted by the churches and the Women Citizens League and the Women which would help fill Deseronto with visitors.

Where shall we put the show on and who it willing to assist?

"Robbing Peter to pay Paul," was the comment of Mayor Simpson of Toronto on the suggestion made at the meeting of Ontario mayors that municipalities be given the right to tax Hydro property. "It would increase the cost to the users of the Hydro system," he stated, "the taxpayers would benefit, but since they are all users of the system it would all have to be paid back again." There is a side to this question which has been overlooked by Mayor Simpson. All taxpayers are not power consumers. But more important is the fact that the revenue from such taxes could be used by municipalities, whereas any profits of a hydro commission cannot be used for municipal purposes.

Now that the snow is deep and nights are cold and stormy, our one reaction for evening's pastime is reading. To those who enjoy this form of recreation, the Deseronto Public Library offers every facility for enjoyment. Here you will find a large assortment of books, from which the average reader should have no trouble in selecting one to his liking whether it be in fiction or among the classics. Reading is one of the finest forms of education and for those of us who have never had, or never will have, an opportunity to travel through the various sections of the world in which we are more or less interested, it affords an excellent avenue through which we may increase our knowledge of customs and conditions in the far distant lands. Everybody can make some time for reading, no matter in what calling of life they may be engaged. The local library board have given fully of their time and energies to make the local library one of the best and citizens of Deseronto and community should take advantage of the facilities afforded them right at their door. By becoming a patron of the local library you will not only enrich your knowledge but you will be showing your appreciation of the efforts of those who have labored in the interests of the local institution. The library board have just purchased a number of new books which are now being released as soon as they are numbered and registered. Why not share in the good things of life?

Numerous Things Asked

Revenue measures, increasing the municipal share or control of taxes, featured Ontario Municipal Association resolutions presented to Hon. David Croll at Queen's Park last week. The resolution, several dealing with subjects of long standing, asked the following moves:

Taxation of Hydro properties; compulsory automobile insurance, a city council voice in school board expenditure; a municipal share in the gasoline tax and motor registration fees; public utility milk distribution, permitting the council to control the price; legislation permitting a chain store business assessment increase from 25 to 50 per cent.; legislation requiring natural gas companies to file statements available to municipalities; and relief from the cost of preparing the third part of the voters' lists.

Mr. Croll promised that the resolutions would be given serious consideration when the program was drawn up.

What Others Say

Exercising a Right

(Tavistock Gazette)

We wonder just how many people realize that all meetings of the Council the School Board and the Public Utilities Commission are open to the public. Perhaps they all do, but very few, if any, exercise their right and attend regular sessions.

It was noted that at each and every one of the three aforementioned bodies, the feeling was expressed from year to year, but still the meetings are never attended by anyone except the Scribe, with the exception of someone who wants something or has a complaint to voice, and who only stays until his wants are attended to.

The Gazette tries to give all the details of the three meetings, but we realize only too well that in main, that is impossible. We are only human, and are liable to take the wrong meaning and express it as we saw it. Again, too, we are liable to miss something that is of importance to the people, though we believe that this seldom happened since we have been attending the meetings. Why not attend the meetings, thus exercising your right, and get your own idea of what confronts the several Boards? We believe you would be made welcome.

The Hepburn Government will perform a useful service if they will so amend the Act that the Board of Education has not the final say on how much money will be spent on education in the municipality. As the Act now stands, they can call the tune and the councillors must dance to the music. This has always been a cause of friction.—Pembroke Standard-Observer.

The proposed new highway from Belleville to Bancroft is now known at Queen's Park as the "Faulkner Highway" as a tribute to Dr. Faulkner of Belleville. Along that line No. 7 highway from Peterboro to Havelock or the Burleigh highway should indeed be termed the "Lancaster Highway" as it was due principally to Mr. Lancaster's efforts that both were secured for this riding.—Havelock Standard.

SALESMANSHIP—Business authorities claim that a thoroughly selfish man never becomes a really good salesman. He is always so full of his own point of view that he has no thought for his prospect's good, with the result that he simply cannot present his arguments convincingly. Many have said the Bible is the greatest book on salesmanship ever written because it is so permeated with the idea that a man must forget himself and live for others. The institutions which teach that unselfishness is the great aim in life are the Churches, and regular attendance at one of them is of genuine value to every business man.

ABILITY TO JOKE

One of the survivors of the Dundas train wreck, lying in a critical condition in hospital, said: "Well, at least we've taken those Dionnes off the front page." The capacity of human beings to laugh at the very moment of death, and in the direst extremity, is one of the most admirable qualities of the race.—Hamilton Herald.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT.

Mr. John A. Cunningham, former patrolman on the Warkenton-Kincardine highway, thought last week that the fates were against him when on going to his barn he found a plump Lashorn that had got soaked in the water-trough lying to all appearances frozen stiff on the barn floor, with the temperature without hovering around the zero mark.

Believing that life had long since departed, but bent nevertheless on flavoring the bird out, Mr. Cunningham threw it behind the cook stove in the kitchen, where a wood fire was crackling in the grate.

Believe it or not, as Ripley would say, but that bird came to, and to demonstrate that it was no ingrate, laid an egg, and then cackled vigorously for the boss to come and behold "Business As Usual." Nothing that he had lapped on the farm gave him more satisfaction than Biddy's performance on that occasion.—Warkenton Herald-Times.

WELL DRESSED.

A current French idea of keeping the wolf away from the door appears to be to confront him with the complacency of good times, im-pressed with the spectacle of a householder in a snappy new suit, the wolf is expected to let fall his tail and slink away in embarrassment at his obviously ill-timed intrusion. This attitude is, of course, based on the copybook motto that nothing succeeds like evidence of success.—Guelph Mercury.

LONG SERVICE

A Sundry man possesses a lowly collar button which he claims is 80 years old. So proud of it is he that it only takes part in the regular duty of a collar button on Sundays. His father had used the same accessory for 55 years.

The story goes that the button was found by a sailor in a Scottish agent's inn back around 1855. Maybe that explains its remarkable longevity of service.—Border Cities Star.

TORONTO'S FINE SHOWING

Ottawa's experience with diptheria is common to that of all cities where a determined effort is being made to immunize the youthful population against this disease. That once was a deadly plague, probably would be still if preventive measures had not been developed.

Toronto in 1895 reported 147 deaths from diptheria. Allowing for the increase in population, in the same proportion the death list in 1934 would have reached 498. But by last year the toxic immunization plan had been in use for a period long enough to make its benefits fully apparent, there were only 22 cases of diptheria in the whole city, and no deaths.

The mathematical precision of the drop as more and more children were immunized matches Ottawa's descending scale almost exactly. Toronto had 64 deaths from this disease in 1929, 54 in 1930, 36 in 1931, 15 in 1932 and 5 in 1933. That city's record is another factor for those few who yet may doubt that toxoid confers immunity.—Ottawa Journal.

WHEN THE RAIN FALLS.

The late Sir Herbert Tree, the English actor and wit, once summed up some facts of life in a classic flogie which went, as nearly as I can remember it, as follows:

The rain, it falleth down
Upon the just and unjust fall, but chiefly on the just, because The unjust hath the just's umbrella.

MUST NOT BE REPEATED

Consciously or unconsciously there is a universal conviction that the difficult times of the last four years have been altogether too difficult to be endured again, within the lifetime of the present generation, at least. The people do not intend, if they can help it, to put up with a repetition of that period of declining incomes, declining living standards, declining bank accounts and declining hardships.—Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

CASH AT AUCTION SALES

The terms that used to appear on auction sale bills giving so many months' credit on approved joint notes, and a percentage off for cash, are apparently a thing of the past, herewith. A more abbreviated form is now in common use and the most of the sales are usually "Terms cash." Numbers of the posters also bear the admonition that nothing is to be taken from the premises "until satisfactorily settled." It would appear that the farmer has gone on the cash and carry basis also. Can it be that the credit system is about to go from all phases of activity. A few years ago everywhere was urged to buy on easy terms, it would seem that the terms were so easy that everyone bought. The paying days are here. They have struck every walk of life, and the sales are apparently just another evidence of the cash basis being established.—Acton Free Press.

PROBLEM OF COW'S TAIL.

Word comes that in Los Angeles there is a national inventors' congress and that among 500 other degrees there is one for holding a cow's tail during milking. It recalls the man who invented a gadget for striking matches. You put in the match, turned a handle and rushed across the room to catch it before it went out. What is the matter with tying the tail of hair at the end of the tail round the cow's leg?

I wasn't always so wise. Among my other varied activities I once learned to milk cows. And I cursed the cow heartily because she insisted on sloshing me in the eye with her tail. The lady who taught me to milk looked on and said: "Why don't you tie a rock to it?" Anything so simple had never struck me. So I did it. I remained unconscious for 15 minutes.

I have always lamented that most women have no sense of humor, but when they have it's a wow.—Vancouver Province.

POLICE DOGS.

Police dogs cannot be imported into Australia. They are a nuisance and menace in most countries. In that Commonwealth they endanger the sheep industry, which is a basic business of their agriculture. Australians cannot afford to have any more dangerous dogs running around large sheep ranches. As it is now the dingo, or native dog, held by pastoralists is by the most cunning animal in existence is of considerable trouble owing to its raids on sheep and the extreme difficulty there is in shooting or even poisoning.—Brisbane Sun.

RUGGED INDIVIDUALISM.

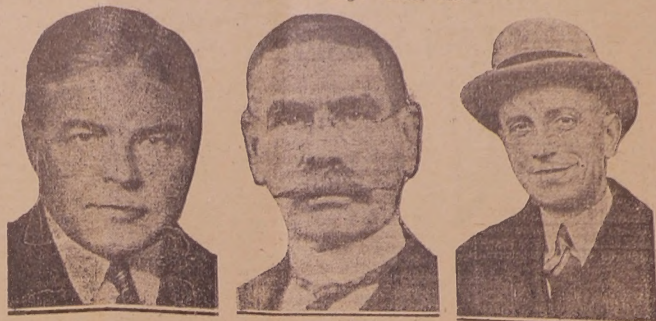

"I believe in rugged individualism and the ruggedness and the more individualistic it is, the more I believe in it," says President George B. Cluten, of Colgate University, who thinks that there is too much tendency to suppress the individual for the good of the man. As a matter of fact, he thinks that it is quite the wrong way to go about it and that more good will be accomplished for the mass, if the individual is encouraged.—Saint Star.

THE EMPIRE

SHORTER SKIRTS.

Having had to see the day when a woman in short skirt looks positively dowdy, we must prepare our eyes for another shock. Next spring the fashion experts say, skirts will be shorter. Women will still dress in the height of discretion, but the height of discretion will be raised a few inches. By the time next year the towering garments that now look so smart may be worn only by aunts. When this see-saw process has been repeated a few times more the whole human race will be shocked. And what will the models do then, poor things!—Manchester Sunday Chronicle.

Canadians In King's Honor List

Seventeen Canadians appeared in the King's Honor List this year. Here we see left to right—E. W. Beatty, K.C., Knight of Grace of the Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem; Sir Albert Gooderham, B.A., created Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George; William J. Stewart, ex-Mayor of Toronto, Companion of the Order of the British Empire.

AIR MAIL TO CANADA.

Since we have now reached a point at which the above mail to Canada must be considered an immediate question the seardome has become a practical problem, albeit an extremely ticklish one. The Americans claim that artificial islands of suitable design for the use of aircraft can be constructed and employed with success. We have still to see one, but if the claim be granted, who is to make them and who is to operate them? Are they to be internationally planned and controlled or to be simply a host of little Heligolands of the nations whose flags they fly? Obviously the seardome question and the problem of the freedom of the seas cannot be separated.—Glasgow Herald.

THE ART OF AGRICULTURE.

It must not be forgotten that agriculture is also an art. In its highest forms it is based on an instinct for the soil, long years of experience and observation, above all training to grapple practically with day to day problems as they arise. In a word, farming cannot be conducted by word of command, like the manoeuvres of a body of troops. These are things which should be remembered when the wholesale planning of production from the soil is contemplated. Therefore, to whatever degree of control this country must resign itself, an assurance that it will neither be overladen with complicated machinery, nor made too rigid for safety, is of first importance to both the farmer and the community as a whole.—Auckland Times.

NEXT TO GODLINESS

Some say the present clamor for bathing facilities arose through a plumbing accident, which deprived one of the most immaculate of our Councilors of his morning showers. Unable to take his accustomed bath, he first grew indignant and then sorrowful, as the realization came over him of what it meant to be one of the great unwashed. Dr. E. Prada, the town clerk, pointed out at the Health Authority meeting that there is no compulsion on house owners to install shower baths on their premises. Should such laxity continue? Should not the Local Authority be given power to enforce the construction of baths in all dwellings?—Trinidad Guardian, Port of Spain.

OF $12,901,600 FOR YEAR
JUST CLOSED

Ottawa—Canada's field crops for 1934 show an estimated gain of $12,901,600 in value. This improvement is attributed mainly to better prices for farm products and some improvements in yields, and may be regarded as a significant and hopeful step in the recovery of Canadian agriculture. According to a crop report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics the value of the 1934 field crops is estimated at $536,498,600, compared with the 1933 valuation of $423,597,000, and reaches the highest level since 1930.

The greatest value increases are shown by the grain and fodder crops, but these are offset to some extent by a sharp decline in potatoes and a lesser decline in sugar beets. Hay and clover accounted for a gain of 37 million dollars in value, oats were better by 31 million dollars and barley showed a gain in value of 10½ million dollars. The estimated value of the potato crop is placed 9 million dollars lower than in 1933 despite the higher production in 1934.

HAY PRICES HELP

All of the provinces reported increases in the value of field crops with the exception of Prince Edward Island, where a very slight reduction was shown. Both Nova Scotia and New Brunswick show increases due mainly to the improvement in hay prices. In Quebec a fairly general betterment in yield and prices caused an increase of 30 million dollars, or 45 per cent. in the value of field crops. In Ontario, higher prices for grain and fodder offset the lower production, and the estimated value of field crops is up 17½ million dollars, or 14 per cent. Manitoba's yields were also down, but with generally higher prices, the value of field crops is placed at 16½ million dollars, or nearly 50 per cent. higher than in 1933. A similar condition prevailed in Saskatchewan which shows an improvement of 18 million dollars, or roughly 20 per cent. Alberta field crop values are estimated to be higher by about 37 per cent, or $14 million dollars. British Columbia shows a slight betterment over 1933 valuations.

UNIVERSAL LAW FOR MOTORISTS

Nations Should Co-operate in Formation of Uniform Safety
Code, Speaker Says.

Toronto.—It is time for the nations of the world to cooperate in formation of a world-wide automobile safety code, in the opinion of Robert C. Graham, executive vice-president of the Graham-Page Company and chairman of the export committee of the Automobile Manufacturers' Association of the United States. He has recently completed a tour comprising 15 countries and 35 states.

England, he finds, "has made the finest comeback of any country," but declares that the day is past when any nation can prosper regardless of world conditions.

SPIRIT OF RECIPROCALITY

"I think the big thing to-day," he said, "is to remember that the wealth of the world is large. We should deal with other countries in a spirit of reciprocity, arranging our terms by narrow nationalistic policies. We found, in the United States, that our Smoot-Hawley bill had boosted tariffs up too high—and we are gradually repairing that mistake."

In regard to motoring needs, he pointed out that automobiles had already been developed more than the supervision of drivers and maintenance of highways.

"We cannot say our highways are finished," he declared, "so long as one grade crossing remains, and so long as our curves are not so constructed that drivers can take advantage of the speed and power which modern automobiles possess."

UNIFORM SAFETY LAWS

"There should be uniform safety laws throughout the world, with the fine ideas of each country welded into a universal, simple and sensible program that would demand that only those capable of safe driving be allowed to drive, rigid inspection of tires and brakes."

He stated that by June a highway would be complete between Mexico City and Halifax, that cars built for Canada, the United States and Australia, where long distances were to be traversed, would always require heavier cars and more powerful engines than those designed for smaller European countries, and that newspapers were the greatest present medium for moulding the public mind, expressing a wish that they would use their opportunity to foster world fellowship.

Canadian Railway
Earnings Higher

Revenues For Ten Months
$247,356,942 Compare
With $220,883,742

Ottawa.—Canadian railways earned $247,356,942 in October as against $220,883,742 in 1933. This was an increase of $1,911,668, or seven per cent. Operating expenses were heavier by $1,770,540, or nine per cent, and net operating revenues increased from $7,566,248 to $7,697,376.

Less than half of the increase in operating expenses was for operating payroll which increased by $552,484, or from $12,146,572 in 1933 to $12,699,056. The number of employees rose from 114,670 to 120,877, but was 3,930 less than in September, 1934.

For the ten months, January to October, gross revenues amounted to $247,356,942 in 1934 and $220,883,742 in 1933 and the operating income was $27,460,277 in 1934 and $16,797,773 in 1933.

Canadian Boy Scouts

Eighty thousand children were supplied with Christmas toys through a chain of 150 toy shops operated across Canada from coast to coast by Canadian Boy Scouts. Since their inception eleven years ago Canadian Boy Scout toy shops have collected, repaired, repainted and distributed nearly two million toys to over half-a-million Canadian children.

In many centres scarcity of old toys this past year caused the Scouts to try their hand at making new ones, and wholesale quantities of new wagons, truck, tractors, racers, doll bedroom sets and other toys to delight the childish heart were added to Santa's pack.

Thousands of family parcels of toys were sent to settlers rehabilitated in Ontario and Quebec by Government and municipal back-to-the-land schemes, and to new homesteaders in Northern Saskatchewan.

Heavy bulk shipments of toys were made by eastern Scout toy shops to assist their brother-Scouts in the West to carry on the good work. In addition, Scouts in the East distributed thousands of playthings among the children of their own districts who might otherwise have been overlooked.—Canadian Week by Week.

Shortens Hours
For Shop Clerks

London — Easier conditions for young store clerks are ensured under the Shops Act which came into force with the New Year.

The act limits the working time of boys and girls under 18 in shops, to 62 hours a week until December, 1936, after which the hours are to be 48 a week. Twenty-four hours' overtime in six weeks a year may be worked, but no more than 12 hours in any one week.

Employers must allow their young workers a break of at least 20 minutes after a continuous stretch of five hours' work. If a meal is taken on the premises a period of 45 minutes at least must be allowed, and if away, one hour.

NOW SORE THROAT EASED IN LESS THAN 3 MINUTES!

1. Crush and stir 3 Aspirin tablets in a third of a glass of water.

2. Gargle thoroughly—throw head way back, allowing a little to trickle down throat. Repeat—do not raise mouth.

3. If you have signs of a head or chest cold take 2 Aspirin tablets—drink a full glass of water. Repeat in 2 hours.

Rawness, Irritation Go at Once
Note Directions for New Instant Treatment

Incredible as it may seem, doctors are now prescribing a way that relieves raw, painful sore throat in as little as 2 to 3 minutes!

All you do is crush and stir 3 Aspirin tablets in $\frac{1}{3}$ glass of water and gargle with it twice.

Aspirin tablets disintegrate so completely no irritating particles are left. Results are immediate. At once soreness is eased—discomfort allayed.

Everywhere throat specialists urge this fundamental treatment instead of less effective old-time "washes" and "antiseptics." Remember this. And when you buy, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer on every Aspirin tablet. Aspirin is the trade mark of the Bayer Company, Limited.

don't want to be in Monte when Mr. Fellowes returns, to give him the slightest chance of discussing that money with me—"

"I see. But you mustn't go without letting me know first. There will be something you would have to sign for me to carry this through. You had better telephone me during the afternoon, if you don't mind."

Sylvia promised to do that. She had other matters to settle, she knew, before she could leave Monte. It would scarcely be evening before she could do that, though she would have liked to catch a train for Paris and England right away.

She had, for one thing, to dispose of the Villa Savini, the lease of which had been taken for quite a long time. This proved not so easy to arrange as she had hoped, and afternoon was upon her almost before she had realised it. She had just discovered how the time was flying while she was in the library, awaiting the agent who had leased the villa, when the noise of an arriving car made her feel certain he had arrived.

"John Christopher!"

"I imagine so."

He came stalking across the big room towards her, his face very grim, his jaws set sternly.

"Really," he exclaimed, "you're a most disappointing girl, Sylvia Darnley! What's the earthly use of rescuing you from those crook friends of yours, only to discover that now you want rescuing from your own obstinate, impossible self?"

"It seems to me," she retorted with a willily-summoned severity, "that I'm being rescued just as much from your rudeness. What are you doing here, anyhow?"

"Doing here?" He eyed her sternly. "Now—listen! I had my suspicions when you turned Vanderduyl and myself down last night because we wanted to get you over to Spiza. I went back to that villa later, and found you'd driven off alone back to here. I followed behind you."

"How ridiculous!" she laughed. "What can be the matter with you, to be taking so much interest in me? Did you think I couldn't drive a car?"

"I thought what I've since proved to be right about—that you'd drive that car to the bank, and go worrying that manager chap with the session I've got into your pocket—over called to see him about it, to refuse to let you make a little prize idiot of yourself by giving away what you badly want, to someone who absolutely refuses to accept it. Got me, Miss Sylvia Darnley?"

"Now, you listen to me this time, please!" she said softly after a moment of silence, seating herself on the writing-table edge and eyeing him appealingly.

"You mustn't talk so disrespectfully about my poor uncle's last will and testament, John Christopher," she urged. "After all, you've told me yourself that he was the best friend you'd ever had."

"That's perfectly true!" he admitted.

"Yet you're quarrelling with his dying wishes. You're really rather queer, John Christopher. You seem to have been very fond of quarrelling with your best friend. You did that before—three years ago, when he wrote that will in my favour."

"Do you know why?"

"He wrote that will," he asked her, a grim little smile twisting his lips.

which of course I never for a moment believed, that you had defrauded uncle."

"I'm glad you didn't believe that," he nodded. "And I'll tell you the real reason, it's—"

He hesitated for a moment, laughed awkwardly and the slightest touch of red darkened one of his cheeks.

"It's rather difficult to explain without risk of offending you. But—here goes. He and I quarrelled or at least agreed to differ—because I refused to agree with a suggestion of his that I should share his fortune with you, or you with me, conditionally that we became man and wife."

"You didn't think I might be quite nice enough! She laughed, perhaps a little wistfully.

"On the contrary," he retorted. "I had too much respect for you—even without knowing you—to believe you'd be influenced by money into marriage with any man you did not love."

"I'm sure that was very sweet of you!" Sylvia coloured.

"So we parted, and I took it for granted you would inherit, as I felt only right. Then I had a letter from your uncle. He wrote it the very night he had signed a fresh will, telling me what he had done. He did not let Paula and Tony know what he had done, for he had begun rather to distrust them. Next day his stroke took him."

"That was why I knew of the will when you wanted to tell me about it, though I didn't think it wise to tell you too much. For the same reason, even though I knew those two were out and out thugs, I didn't say too much to you in Paris. I could even have told you in Malchester that they would come there after you. But—"

"You took me, I suppose, just as they did, for someone too easily fooled to be trusted?" Sylvia shrugged.

"On the contrary," he replied, "I felt you had so much common sense that you could well be left to look after yourself."

"And that, I suppose," she reminded him, "has been why you left me so severely alone, why you never said a word that morning at the bank, when you pretended the money was gone—"

"It wasn't pretence. It was serious, but I do admit I hoped it would turn out as it did in the end. I hoped it might completely frighten Mal-lison off."

BROKE HER LEG AGAINST A STAIR

Whilst Hampered by Rheumatism

"Two years ago," writes a woman, "I was suffering with rheumatism in my legs, and when walking upstairs one day just kicked my right foot against the stairs, and broke my leg just below the knee. Sees Great Wealth In Arctic Circle

Canadian Club Speaker Paints Vivid Picture Of Far North

Toronto.—Smashing the popular illusion that the North Pole is nothing but a barren waste of ice and snow and prophesying that Canada's dream of a rich and powerful Empire in the far north is going to come true, Richard Flinn, F.R.G.S., spoke at a recent meeting of the Canadian Club.

The speaker, who was born in the Klondike, within a stone's throw of the Arctic Circle, painted a vivid picture of a country which, he believes, is going to offer a tremendous source of wealth and power to the Dominion. Within a few years, he prophesied, villages and towns will spring up right across the entire polar circle and these will form the nucleus of a new Empire with endless possibilities due to its natural resources and undiscovered mineral wealth.

Describing the recent and remarkable mineral discoveries in the Great Bear Lake district, Mr. Flinn strongly denied that transportation still offers an insoluble problem in this district.

"The popular belief has been that the only way to get the minerals out of this district is by airplane," he said, "and mining experts have figured this cost to be too expensive. But this summer the Hudson's Bay Company and the Northern Transportation Company, have been arranging new and modern methods of river transportation."

Kindness and Cruelty

Kindness and cruelty appear to be relative terms, and wholly dependent on habit. One hears no complaint on the part of Chinese wives, because their husbands never kiss them. Doubtless they would complain if their husbands did. Sir Richard Burton, the famous English linguist and traveller, relates that he once met a dusky maiden, in one of his expeditions, who bewailed with bitter sobs the loss of her husband's love. He wished to know why she thought it was lost. Well, it had been a long time since her husband had given her a beating.

Royal Bank of Canada Presents Strong Statement

Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, Notes Distinct Improvement in Business — Looks Forward to 1935 With Confidence

Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, Reviews Financial Statements — Reports $50,000,000 Increase in Deposits

At the Sixty-Sixth Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada, held in Montreal, Morris W. Wilson, President, paid tribute to the distinguished service rendered to the bank by Sir Herbert Holt, who had presided at over a quarter of a century, and whose outstanding ability and prestige have been important factors in the sound and consistent growth of the bank during his regime.

In commenting on the strong statement presented at the meeting, Mr. Wilson said that it reflected a year of operations under distinctly improved conditions, both at home and abroad.

Referring to the recent revision of the Bank Act and the Act incorporating the Bank of Canada, he stated that the enactments preceding these enactments the bankers were able to justify their administration. He warned that the curtailment of earning power resulting from restrictions upon interest rates chargeable by banks and the withdrawal of note-issuing privileges inevitably reduce the ability of banks to maintain unproductive branches in small communities. Banking profits have never been excessive, and in the last year we paid sixty-seven cents to the Canadian tax-gatherer. This does not take into account the income tax paid by our shareholders themselves on dividends received from the bank. Surely these figures require no comment.

In discussing the improved conditions in Canada, Mr. Wilson pointed out that during the past year manufacturing and employment have approximated the levels of 1926; iron and steel production, the output of automobiles, textiles and electrical energy had increased and the value of exports notably lumber and minerals, had advanced substantially. The wheat crop was no larger, but fortunately higher prices prevailed. The value of field crops had increased over $100,000,000 and the enhanced purchasing power of the farmers had stimulated trade throughout the country. There has been increased demand for Canadian mineral products abroad and it is anticipated that the output of Canadian gold mines will exceed $100,000,000 in 1933. The building boom in Great Britain created unprecedented demand for Canadian lumber and a record volume of shipments has been made during the past year. He mentioned the importance of the tourist trade to Canada, which had amounted to over $30,000,000 last year, and for several years brought many tourists into Canada than our wheat exports.

"Demand from the United States for newspaper newsprint is strong, with the result that the output of the Canadian mills in 1934 was more than twenty-five per cent. higher than in the previous year. In fact, it was greater than five per cent. of the peak year of 1929. Prices, however, were even lower than in economies operations have continued 1933 and, despite the most rigid used on an unprofitable basis.

"The railway situation continues to be the most important economic problem in Canada. Obviously, the Canadian people cannot stand indefinitely a weekly drain of over $1,000,000 for railway deficits, and the time is rapidly approaching when more drastic and effective action will have to be taken if we are to maintain national credit and solvency."

Referring to world affairs, the President said that in spite of tense political situations during the past year, business has continued to improve. Production in Great Britain and several other countries was greater than in 1932.

"It is only in the countries of the gold bloc where business has become materially worse during the year. World trade, however, must be released from the multitude of new restrictions which were among the worst products of the depression, if it is to regain healthy vigor. Excessive economic nationalism has proved a dangerous boomerang, striking down home industries as well as those of foreign countries. I believe that the pendulum of opinion has swung toward better economic relationships between countries, and I look upon this new attitude as a happy augury of further favorable developments during the coming year.

The Capitalist System "It is not surprising that new social experiments should have been undertaken in many countries in the hope of mitigating the suffering incidental to violent booms and depressions. Undoubtedly, the world has been thrown upon the capitalistic system. That system has been the result of a process of evolution and as such has been subject to modifications from time to time to meet changing conditions. Further modifications and changes may be a necessity if we are to rid of the evils of major depressions. The difficulties in the distant past were the outcome of shortages. At the present moment the major difficulties have to do with the distribution of an increasing surplus which tends to exceed purchasing power. Increasing attention must be given to measures which will provide for a freer and more even flow in the exchange of goods and services, similar as the "New Deal" in the United States, or economic experiments in other parts of the world, may provide a workable answer to this problem, we should not hesitate to profit by that solution. Social and economic experiments which fail, however, are usually costly and imprudent and wise to "make haste slowly" in changing fundamental principles of the existing system.

The Outlook "For more than a year and one-half there has been a distinct upward trend in business activity. Improvement has been general in practically all branches of agriculture, industry, mining and trade. At the beginning of the new year conditions, both at home and abroad, favor a continuation of this upward trend. It is true that in Canada there remain a number of difficult problems for which practical solutions are necessary, but I believe that the Canadian people have the courage and ability to solve such problems in a rational manner. It is upon the basis of past performance that I look forward to 1935 with renewed confidence."

General Manager's Address In his remarks, Mr. S. G. Dobson, newly appointed General Manager, referred to the very satisfactory nature of the Annual Report and Balance Sheet presented. He said in part:—"After several years of declining figures, due to general conditions, I am glad to say the trend has not only been arrested, but under new headings has been reversed, in some instances to a substantial degree."

In reviewing the Financial Statement, he said:—"Perhaps the most gratifying feature of the Balance Sheet is the increase of over $50,000,000 in total deposits by the public. The total is now $612,579,453. Canadian branches contributed $41,000,000 of this total increase of which $13,000,000 is in the Savings category. It is interesting to note that an increase in deposits was shown by every province in the Dominion.

"Current loans in Canada show an increase for the first time since 1929, and are up over $10,000,000. This is a significant item, reflecting, as do other items in the Balance Sheet, a heartening increase in Canadian business activities."

Mr. Dobson pointed out that all banks in Canada, because of their easy cash position, are looking for desirable loaning business, and the comparatively small increase under this heading reflects a lack of demand for loans, rather than a restriction of credit.

"Profits for the year were $4,395,217, but are not properly comparable with published profits for the previous year because heretofore they were reported after deducting Provincial taxes, but before Federal taxes. For the sake of uniformity, and the fuller information of shareholders, both classes of taxes are now disclosed in the published report. Making allowance for the resulting increase under this heading, profits are lower by $268,443, leaving $1,506,804 to be carried forward in Profit & Loss Account, after the usual deductions for dividends, taxes, etc.

"In keeping with the downward trend in interest rates and the resulting difficulty in employing funds profitably, the bank and most other institutions accepting deposits reduced their rates on interest-bearing accounts 1/2 of 1% from November 1, 1934. This has had a beneficial effect upon bond prices, and has helped to reduce the cost of Dominion and Provincial financing."

Mr. Dobson made special reference to the satisfactory results achieved by the branches outside of Canada and the valuable assistance they have given to exporters in the development of their trade in the countries where the bank is represented. In conclusion, he said:

"On the whole, 1934 may be regarded as a year of substantial recovery for Canada. While we still have many problems to solve, we for looking forward with confidence to a further improvement in conditions during 1935."

WOMEN'S CHATTER

By Mair M. Morgan

Crime Cause!

We have all at some time or other witnessed the trouble bridge breeds in marital relations and now Professor John W. Curran of the De Paul University Law School, speaking at a conference on crime and its cures, declares:

"The passion for contract bridge and other pleasures is leading American parents to neglect their children, leading them into consequent disregard for law and order, and often criminal careers."

That is a strong statement to make and puts it up to parents in no uncertain terms.

Clad In Blanket

If you are one of those people who enjoy contrasts, here is one. Seat yourself before a roaring fire on a windy cold night and visualize this:

Adam Yakamovitch, a trapper builds too big a fire and his cabin is razed to the ground.

Seeking shelter, his feet wrapped in strips of a blanket and his shivering form folded in another he struggles 24 miles before reaching a Hudson Bay outpost.

Man's endurance is marvellous and the North Country breeds them strong.

Food Fads Exploded

Along comes another professor who jeers at diet fanciers. Speaking to Sydney, Australia housewives, Professor Herbert Priestly debunked the idea that fish formed a brain food.

He placed eggs and tripe high in the scale of nutrition, but oysters, mushrooms and brains low down the scale.

"Vitamins are fashionable just now," continued Professor Priestly, "important as they are, too much has been made of them. Extensive vitamin concentrates are not necessary as food when a well-mixed diet is taken."

"Sugar is the most readily available source of energy. If a man's diet is devoid of common salt, he will die of starvation. There is no evidence that the eating of large amounts of salt does any harm."

"Soya beans have the biggest protein content of any food, but peanuts are almost as good, raw or roasted."

"Milk is the most valuable single item of food taken by man. In bread and milk man has everything he wants."

"Green vegetables and fruit have little body-building or energy-giving value, but they supply vitamins, mineral salts and cellulose, giving value, but they supply vitamins, mineral salts and cellulose."

"Water is just as essential a food as any other. Two or three pints a day should be drunk. For a person with a normal stomach there are no disadvantages and many advantages in drinking with meals. Digestion is more rapid and complete when liquid is taken in small quantities throughout a meal."

Beauty Budget

BUY COSMETICS IN LARGE QUANTITIES—IT PAYS IN THE LONG RUN

"It takes a lot of money to keep yourself well groomed," complained the girl who lives on a limited income. "I do wish I could manage to care for my skin and hair without having to worry so much about the cost."

Her problem is one the majority of women face. To keep skin, nails and hair neat and attractive and clothes clean and pressed does require careful budgeting. However, it can be done. And right now, at the beginning of a New Year, is a fine time to start.

First, remember that a large quantity of any preparation is cheaper than a small amount. You get more for your money when you buy cleansing cream in half-pound jars, powder in large boxes, skin tonic in quart bottles and toilet water in huge flacons. Cotton in pound rolls cost little compared to what you pay when you get it in tiny containers. Cleansing tissues are less expensive when you buy two or three large boxes at a time. Watch for sales and get supplies then.

Lipsticks that can be refilled are economical. So are loose-powder compacts.

Layette for Baby

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

Here's a simple to sew layette for baby designed for his comfort to make him happy.

Since collars are unnecessary and annoying to baby, the dress is cut with a comfortably low round neck. Fullness from the shoulders is held with dainty shirings, forming a yoke effect. The slip is easily put on as it buttons on either shoulder. The wrapper or sacque (pattern provides perforations for same) has comfortable kimono sleeves. The sleeping bag has a sliding fastener which lessens any chance of his kicking the covers on while he sleeps out of doors and keeps him cozy and warm. The cunning cap has a fitted back.

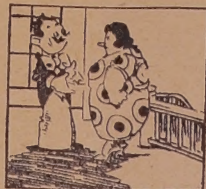

Besides being simple to make, these garments will be found easy to launder.

Layette Design No. 3041 cuts in one size only. See pattern envelope for material requirements.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

Learn to use all your preparations in an economical manner. A thin coat of cleansing cream will clean your skin just as well as a heavy one. Tissue cream lasts longer and really has a better effect if you use it sparingly and pat it in with a pattern or your fingertips. To save skin tonic, dip a cotton pad in cold water and wring it out before you soak it in the tonic.

Mr. Stint: Four dollars a week is a pretty big price for board. Do I get any rebate for the scrape I leave on my plate?
Mrs. Lodge: The eight dollar boarders get the gorp rebate. At four dollars a week you won't leave any scraps.

LESSON NO. 40.

RHYTHM, BALANCE, HARMONY. Rhythm means joint action or movement—a relation and connection of parts, that leads the eye pleasantly through all the details of a design. Balance means repose that results from a correct arrangement and opposition of the attractions of a design. Harmony means fitness for purpose, coherence and completeness of form and idea, the unity of all parts of a design, however different each part may be from the rest when separately considered.

principles, yet contains them all. Fig. 144 has Balance and Harmony as well as Rhythm. Fig. 145 has Rhythm and Harmony as well as Balance. Fig. 146 has Balance and Rhythm as well as Harmony.

Search for and file away examples of these three principles: RHYTHM, BALANCE, HARMONY. Write notes on these examples to assist you for future reference. You may first find it a little difficult to note and to separate these three features of Rhythm, Balance and Harmony; but ability comes with practice. You will be surprised to learn how your in-

Fig. 144, 145 and 146 illustrate in a practical way a simple manifestation of Rhythm, Balance and Harmony.

In Fig. 144, the three figures holding the tablet, with each figure in the same position, may be said to be standing rhythmically. In Fig. 145 the central figure is balanced equally by figures in positions similar to other, on either side. In Fig. 146 the figures are all in different position, but they are united in purpose and related in arrangement, and so they manifest Harmony. You will notice that each of these designs, though it represents only one of the three creased interest brings about the faculty to note and to see them, understanding.

Ex. No. 43. Illustrate examples demonstrating the principles of Rhythm, Balance and Harmony, as taught in this lesson. Do not copy the design used in this lesson, originate your own designs.

Questions will be answered in this department. Anyone wishing to receive a personal reply may have same if a 3c stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed with the request. The Art Director, Our Sketch Club, Room 425, 73 Adelaide Street West, Toronto.

World Amity Fostered By Women's Institutes

Montreal — One of the significant movements of Women's Institutes are the "Links of Friendship," or contacts made between branches separated by wide distances overseas. They consist of friendly messages with sometimes small gifts of some product peculiar to the section of the country. Reports of activities are exchanged with mutual benefit.

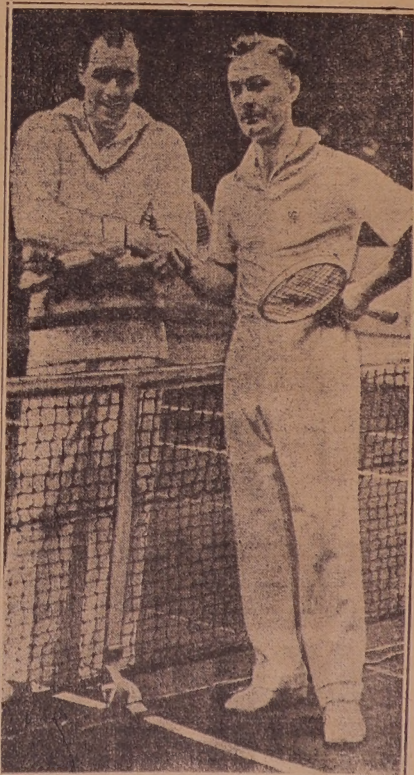

"These contacts are of great value to the international life of the world," comments a Quebec Women's Institute official. "A truer spirit of co-operation and a better understanding between countries are fostered by means of these contacts between the basic forces of their rural life."

"However agreeable to its possessor, the superiority complex makes an exasperating neighbor." — Dean Inge.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

NEW MEMBERS AHEAD!

When he's very young, a simple, minimum cost camera is really preferable in most instances, but once he comes under the spell of real snapshotting, he merits—and should have—a modern camera of the better type.

YEAR after year, the idea of cameras as appropriate gifts for birthdays, graduation and other memorable occasions, has grown steadily. Last year, if you'll pardon the personal intrusion, I gave my own mother a simple little camera on her birthday. At first, she was frankly skeptical. She had never used a camera, always relying on my sometimes unreliable self. She was sure she would never master that camera. . . . Now it goes with her everywhere, much to our mutual joy.

To some folks, I wouldn't dream of giving a camera. They're not enough interested in other folks and places and life in general to get any fun out of it.

But there are others—the majority—to whom a camera would mean much.

What kind of camera? It depends entirely on the kind of person who is to receive it. Every youngster should have a chance at a camera, but only of the simplest, most inexpensive sort. By "inexpensive" I mean cameras costing from, say, one to five dollars. They should be of any of the standard makes, using film available everywhere.

Of course, if you have a young friend who has shown more than average interest in picture making and has outgrown his simple little box camera, you can provide vast happiness by presenting him—or her—with a better camera.

Once you get above the five to ten dollar class, the variety of cameras to be had is bewildering. Of recent years there has been a tremendous increase in the use of so-called "precision" cameras—small cameras, beautifully made and equipped with all manner of useful gadgets. Their lenses are masterpieces, their adjustments more accurate than many a professional studio camera. Naturally, they cost money, plenty of money. Beginning at about $25, the prices of these miniature cameras range on up and up and up. If you're really anxious to spend a hundred dollars on a camera, you'll have no trouble at all. However, you can stay in the general neighborhood of fifty dollars and get some amazingly beautiful cameras. By "beautiful" I mean something so expertly designed and constructed that there's sheer delight in handling it.

Many of the miniature, precision cameras use very small-size film. The idea is that the small pictures are kept as records, while enlargements of the best shots are used by the proud owners to show what they've been doing.

Modern, fine-grain film, by the way, makes this procedure possible.

You need not, of course, consider the miniature camera in your gift hunting. For the average person you can select a camera with a reasonably good lens—one that's rated at f.6.3 or even f.4.5—and uses a film not always necessary. The famed "post-card size" camera is a favorite and will probably remain so. There's a reason.

If it has been several years since you last looked at cameras, shop around just for the fun of it. You'll discover that things have been happening.

BREATHING FOR BEAUTY

OXYGEN is as necessary to beauty as water is to a fish. Correct breathing can dissipate fatigue, despair and even acute unhappiness. Just breathing to live is only a half-realization of the great potentialities for youth and beauty possessed by this simple practice.

However, even before you commence your breathing exercises, when you get up in the morning, stretch your arms, shoulders, legs and ankles and, of course, your neck. Twist and turn each way, stretch your legs until you feel the muscular pull in your knees. Stretch your chin muscles down, sideways, around.

And now here is a breathing exercise for you in the morning as well as at night when you go to bed. It is actually conducive to calming you and aiding sleep.

Close the left nostril with the index finger of the left hand and breathe in the air with the right nostril. Then while holding the breath, take away the left hand from the left nostril and close the right nostril with the index finger of the right hand. Breathe out through the left nostril. Then, holding the right index finger on the right nostril, breathe in with the left nostril and, changing hands, breathe out with the right. Continue doing this up to twenty, then breathe in and breathe out with both nostrils for twenty more counts.

A splendid vitalic brathing exercise to be practised when walking is: gently breathe in one sniff at the first step, hold and breathe in another, at the second step, then forcibly expel both breaths at the third step and simply walk the next three steps without inhaling or exhaling.

Don't forget that your pores must breathe too. And to insure this, keep the face thoroughly cleansed with a rich cream that will really rid it of all the dust and dirt that accumulate each day.

NEXT: The blotchy complexion. For expert advice on your beauty problems, write Woman's Interest Syndicate, 125 Bloor St. W. Toronto Ontario.

Repeated attempts of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association to learn from Stewart Lyon, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission, the cause of the dismissal of F. A. Gaby, chief Hydro engineer, have been met with silence, T. J. Hannigan, the association secretary stated.

The Ontario board of film censors will now review 16-millimetre motion pictures, which up to now have escaped censorship because for the most part they were shown only in homes or at semi-private functions, J. B. Hard wife, chairman of the board, announced.

Bancroft: At a meeting of the Village Council, Mr. P. Wells was reappointed constable at $25 per month. His duties are as follows: Sanitary inspector, milk inspector, bread inspector, weed inspector and enforcement of village by-laws.

Three idle newsprint mills at Fort William, Espanola and at Sturgeon Falls are to be reconstructed at a cost of $10,000,000 for the production of sulphides, to be used in the manufacture of artificial silk.

Doug, Brennan of Havelock is in Vancouver where he will finish out the hockey season playing for Vancouver Lions in the Western professional circuit. Doug secured his release from Philadelphia Arrows from whom he was suspended a short time ago. His many friends wish him success with his old love, the Vancouver team, for whom he started before going to New York Rangers four years ago.

J. S. Woodsworth and Agnes MacPhail have submitted a resolution to the Parliament for the establishment of a special committee to study and report the best methods of amending the British North American Act.

Niagara Falls, Ont.: Because of the ruling that the city must pay the third increase in cash relief, the cash system will be abandoned here, City Manager Goddard, has announced. Men who have received cards will be allowed to work them out, but after that no more cash will be paid.

Unofficial but reliable estimate of the damages paid by the Canadian National Railways, growing out of the disaster at Dundas on Christmas night, when 15 were killed and 40 injured, place the total in the neighborhood of half a million dollars.

The C.N.R. will abandon its Port Hope-Peterboro line. Between October, 1930, and September, 1931, the C.N.R. lost $14,000 on this line and during 1933 the loss suffered was more than $25,000.

Former Pictor Mayor Dies Suddenly in Florida

Fred Newman, ex-mayor of Picton, dropped dead at West Palm Beach, Florida, where he was spending the winter. He had suffered a stroke last fall and had not been well, but death was unexpected. Secretaries and Treasurer Give Good Reports for 1934

Mrs. Radcliffe Elected President

The annual Woman's Auxiliary meeting of the Church of St. Mark's, Deseronto, was held under the most favorable weather conditions at the rectory on Tuesday afternoon, January 29. Tea was served after which Mrs. Radcliffe took the chair when most interesting and encouraging reports were given of the work done in the past year.

Mrs. Rogers, the recording secretary, read her report and Mrs. T. D. Gault, the treasurer, also read her report, both reports being most satisfactory. Mrs. Eade, at the request of Mrs. English the superintendent of the Junior W.A., read an excellent report of the work the girls were doing.

Miss Mary Gaylord, president of the girls, reported the girls fully organized and ready for another year's work.

The results of the election of officers for the ensuing year were:

Pres., Mrs. Radcliffe.
First Vice-Pres., Mrs. Rixen.
Second Vice-Pres., Mrs. Robinson.

Rec.-Sec., Mrs. Rogers.
Treasurer, Mrs. Gault.
Dores Sec., Mrs. F. Gaylord.
Delegate to Annual Diocesan Meeting, Mrs. English.
Substitute, Mrs. Eade.
Delegate to Autumn Deanery Meeting, Mrs. Robinson.
Substitute, Mrs. Lawrence.

The rector, Rev. E. Radcliffe, congratulated and thanked all the members of this society for the splendid work done and wished them God's blessing and every success in the future.

The meeting was closed with the benediction and prayer.

No Examination Fees

Abolition of all the secondary school examination fees, including the charge for trying entrance examinations, was announced by Hon. Dr. L. J. Simpson, Minister of Education. All examinations this year will have ended by June 28, it was stated.

Truck Skids Into Ditch

A truck driven by J. Mallet of Northport skidded on the icy highway south of Marysville on Tuesday, last week, striking a guard rail and crashing into the ditch. Two guard-rail posts were broken loose.

A new private hospital, fully equipped with operating room, etc., was opened in Tweed last week. The superintendent is Mrs. Dilmage, R.N. of Picton and it is expected the hospital will take care of many patients formerly sent to city hospitals.

Remembrance Day Legal Holiday

Remembrance Day was made a public holiday and is now listed in the International Act, which legally must be observed. The bill was sponsored by Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie and passed in the House of Commons recently. Thus Canadians will now be sure to observe Remembrance Day.

BANFF BEAUTY WINTER QUEEN

Skijoring behind a fast running horse; mushing with a team of huskies; skating; or skiing on the mountain trails all come under the heading of real sport, according to Miss Dorothy Standish, who returns this year during the winter sport season in the Canadian Rockies. Visitors from many United States cities as well as from Canadian centers are enjoying all the thrills which only this area can provide, and which reach a peak during the annual Banff Carnival held this year February 13-17 inclusive.

May Build New Challenger For America's Cup Races

Fairey of England May Build New Contender

Sopwith Has Priority For Entry

London: C. R. Fairey, British sportsman, already has started preparations for an America's Cup yachting campaign in 1936—but whether he really will challenge depends on T. O. Sopwith, Fairey, who owns Shamrock V. Sir Thomas Lipton's last international challenger, has been engaging a Portsmouth crew of selected professionals to race the Shamrock throughout the 1935 season. Shamrock's rivals will include Endeavour, Sopwith's unsuccessful challenger of last summer; King George's Britannia, and the Bostan yacht, Yankee.

His idea is that he can develop a smart, well-drilled crew which would compete on even terms with the crack crews which man America's defenders.

"I've given serious thought to an America's Cup challenge," Fairey said, "but that's as far as it has gone. At any rate, I'll make no serious plans until Sopwith has indicated his intentions. He has priority."

Should Sopwith decide not to challenge again, Fairey said he would build a new challenger.

"If Shamrock couldn't win for Lipton," he explained, "I have no reason to believe she would win for me."

The planking on the government dock is being replaced.

February is the shortest month of the year. Make the most of it.

There wasn't enough sunlight on Saturday to cast a shadow for the groundhog.

There are sections of this town where people have the habit of dumping their coal and wood ashes on the road in front of their residences. Where's our civic pride?

Phonograph records have been invented in England that are made of candy. When you get tired of hearing it, you can eat it up. Sweet music!

The following joke appeared under heading of "The World's Opinion" in the magazine "Dublin Opinion" (Ireland).

Mistress: "Come, Mary, how much longer to get the pepper into the shaker?"

"Sure, ma'am, it's myself can't say how long it will take to get the sneezing stuff into those little holes."—Deseronto Post (Ontario).

It is only fair to the originators of this jest that we disavow it as a brainchild of our making. At the same time we wish that others would give us credit when it is due. Many times we have seen thought of our molding appear credited to others.

At any rate Dublin and vicinity know there is a place in Ontario named Deseronto.

What Others Say

(London Free Press)

The London Liberals must have listened with amazement to the speech of Hon. Dr. Faulkner, minister of health in the Hepburn Government, on Friday night, as he attacked patronage as a vicious system and condemned the practice of firing efficient civil servants, who had taken no part in politics, merely to provide jobs for party followers.

Evidently Dr. Faulkner had not been tipped off as to the situation in London where only this week there had been a most glaring instance of the practice Dr. Faulkner condemned. Six members of the East End Liquor Control Store were dismissed. Three of them were returned men. One was a man over 60 years of age, and another over 50 with a family of four. Two of the young women dismissed had been in the Government service since the days of the Drury regime. There were no charges against the dismissed officials and their places were taken by active Liberal workers.

In view of this callous use of the spoils system in this city only this week Dr. Faulkner's denunciation must have been most embarrassing to the local Liberal Association. Dr. Duncan and the officers must have squirmed on their chairs. It is no wonder that the president in announcing a new appointment to the Ontario Hospital was very careful to inform the press that no one was being dismissed.

If Dr. Faulkner feels so strongly on the subject of patronage, it is about time he exerted some influence at Queen's Park. The introduction of Tammany Hall methods into Ontario is being resented by the people of this province. It is, indeed, a vicious system which cannot be defended on any grounds.

(Hespeler Herald)

"Community beauty a civic duty" is the Kitchener Horticultural Society's slogan. And probably nowhere in the district does one get such a pleasing approach to a city, as Kitchener gives from this side at least. The work of the Kitchener society has had good backing by the civic fathers in that the society found considerable work for the unemployed. But the slogan that Kitchener has chosen should be the slogan in every community—not only for members of the organization, but for every citizen. The Horticultural Society is trying to take care of the public plots. Every citizen can do much toward civic beauty by looking after his own home plot. That adds much to the town's appearance. But by joining the society the citizen can not only help their own growing by buying plants and shrubs, cheaper, but can help the community beautification, by assisting with the cost of public work. Every householder who loves flowers should be a member of the society.

We picked up a Winchester rifle the other day and started down the street intending to deliver the weapon to its owner, from whom we had borrowed it the day before, but it did such effective work in the way of collections that we have made up our minds to keep it as long as we can. The first man we met was one of our subscribers who coughed up a year's subscription before we even thought of pointing the gun at him. The very next man we met was a farmer whom we had always considered a star subscriber. He had not missed a paper or paid a cent in four years. But when he saw that gun he waltzed up and paid in full. When we got home we found a load of wood, fifteen bushels of wheat and a barrel of turnips, which had been brought in by delinquents. If money will buy that gun we are going to keep it to make collections.—Ex.

THE BLOTCY COMPLEXION

NOTHING adds to an interiority complex like the consciousness of a poor complexion. Especially is this so in regard to young people who are apt to have a skin with pimples and blackheads. Too often well meaning parents are indifferent to poor skin in their children, dismissing it with the hope that the condition will clear up as the years pass.

A few simple rules will do wonders towards clearing up the ache-blamed condition of youth. First of all the diet must be watched. Cheese, smoked fish, meats and fat or greasy foods in general should be avoided. Plenty of fruit should be included in the diet and at least eight glasses of water a day. Vigorous exercise is also very helpful. Deep breathing before a window in the morning is a good way to start the day.

Be sure to see that the assimilation of food and the elimination of waste is normal. Intestinal action is greatly aided by eating an orange or dried prunes at night before retiring. All rich foods should be avoided.

The skin itself must be kept immaculately clean. I recommend washing the face twice a day with a granular washing preparation which enlivens the skin and removes blackheads and other pore clogging impurities. Then each day massage the face with a rich pasteurized cream which soothes, animates and cleanses. Vigorous slapping enlivens the skin and encourages the activity of the blood corpuscles to throw off waste material. Do this at night. Apply also a little medicated acne cream on the blemishes and leave on over night.

Finally, avoid touching the face with the fingers. Disinfect open pimples with alcohol. Give hair and scalp proper attention, as falling dandruff aggravates the condition. Use cotton for powdering the face and discard it after each application.

NEXT: Analyze your skin. For expert advice on your beauty problems, write Woman's Interest Syndicate, 126 Bloor St. W. Toronto, Ontario.

Come to Church
a Welcome Awaits You

BANISH FEARS—Fears are negative things of sinister men. They seem to feed on each other. If we fear that we cannot feed each other. If we fear that we cannot sleep, we may think about it so much that it keeps us awake. That makes us fear we may be sick and the weakened resistance often brings sickness. Fear never did anyone any good. It never helped a man to conquer himself or any of life's problems. But the opposites of Fear—Hope and Confidence are positive qualities which are the essential ingredients in every balanced and successful life. And where but in church can these positive qualities best be cultivated?

BOLIVIA'S ADVANTAGE

Apparently disabused of the idea that the interminable warfare between Bolivia and Paraguay in the Gran Chaco jungles can be halted by means of heart-to-heart chats with the combatants, the League of Nations committee entrusted with the task of settling the dispute has decided to settle it by talking sides. The Gran Chaco came down "heads," so Bolivia will now get all the arms she needs, with the blessing of the League, while embargoes on munitions shipments to Paraguay are strengthened.—Border Cities Star.

SEALING WAX.

The use of sealing wax on letters is a very ancient custom, but it is entirely unsuitable to present day uses. The postal employees wax angry at its present day use on the back of letters because of the danger from flying fragments of hardened wax to the eyes of the employees. The post office authorities, however, have ruled that "the department knows of no justifiable reason for requesting the public to forego the use of a sealing material which has been in use from time immemorial, and which, as far as the department is aware, has no substitute."—Moncton Transcript.

CURFEW.

Like Port Stanley, Port Erie has a curfew law that is being enforced to the extent that parents who let "teen" age children roam the streets are being haled into court. That's getting at the root of the trouble.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

FALSE GOSPEL.

"War alone brings up to its highest tension all the noble energy and puts the stamp of nobility upon the peoples who have the courage to meet it." So declares Premier Mussolini, the ruler of Italy. A terrible falsity, Canada proves it this. From the close of the War of 1812-14 with the United States to the outbreak of the World War of 1914, Canada enjoyed practically one hundred years of peace. Then came the World War of 1914. From our small population six hundred thousand Canadians became soldiers—and those who got into battle proved that there were no better soldiers in the world.—Ottawa Journal.

REMINDER.

Let the printed sheets of dates which we call a calendar remind us every day in the year that time is passing, and we must get something valuable out of each day.—Kingston White Standard.

PACIFIC COAST SALMON.

The Professor of Biology at Stanford University said in a recent address before a scientific association that each tributary of streams flowing into the ocean was shown to have a distinct colony or race of salmon. It was further stated by the professor that if these races are destroyed by dam or other man-made devices on the Pacific river they cannot be replaced.—Halifax Herald.

HEARST ON RUSSIA

The American newspaper publisher, William Randolph Hearst, took occasion in a recent national broadcast to speak the "plain, unadorned truth" about Russia. Despite his earlier views on the great communist enterprise in that country, he is definitely critical today. He describes the Soviet governmental experiments as a fearful failure, which was "only to be expected from putting people who could not care for their own interests successfully in charge of the administration of public affairs."—Calgary Herald.

GREATEST SEAPORT.

When people think of big British ports they instantly call to mind Liverpool and Southampton, therefore, it may surprise them to learn that London is Britain's busiest seaport by a long way. During the year ended October 31, the net tonnage using London was 58,893,242. Liverpool was a poor second with 33,605,660, and Southampton third with 25,247,360. Then came Hull with over 11,000,000, although no fewer liners call there, being on the east coast, and fifth place was occupied by Manchester with over 7,000,000, which is pretty good for a port that is 85 miles from the sea to which it only has access by a man-made canal.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

An Alberta driver the other day just missed beating a train to the crossing but no doubt he will try it again.—Calgary Herald.

PRAIRIE FRIENDLINESS

Prairie neighborliness has become a byword throughout Canada. It has been thrown into new and still brighter relief in these years of economic order, men, women and children on the prairies, and as well, in the towns and cities that dot them, have gone out of their way to do the kindly neighborly thing. This personal helpfulness has become an institution in the west.—Regina Leader-Post.

WALKING AT NIGHT.

People who have to walk along roads at night should pay heed to Chief Supt.'s reminder that the safe way is to keep to the left, thus facing oncoming traffic. And to add to one's safety under such circumstances it is advisable to have something white visible. Even a white handkerchief carried on the hand would be seen quickly by the driver of a motor car. Persons dressed in dark clothes are often almost invisible until within the direct focus of the headlights—and then it is usually too late.—Edmonton Journal.

THE VACANT CHAIRS.

Magistrate Browne, of Toronto, whose profession brings him into daily contact with the problem, made some striking reference to the automobile death toll in an address the other night.

The deplorable waste of life occasioned by traffic accidents, he declared, was "a ghastly indictment upon our civilization."

"I am often told," says the magistrate, "that damages will be settled. Yes, but tell me, what insurance company can ever all a vacant chair?"—Peterboro Examiner.

HARD TIMES IN THE ARCTIC

Turkeys at Aklavik, states a radio despatch from the tiny ice-bound settlement, would have been valued at $150 a pound—if there had been any turkeys.

There weren't, so the white and native trappers ate roast caribou and wild cranberries for Christmas and New Year's dinners.—Winnipeg Tribune.

THE EMPIRE

APPETIZER.

At an eating competition, a collier succeeded in getting a leg of mutton, a loaf of bread, and a plentiful supply of vegetables, finishing up with a substantial plum pudding. He was declared the winner.

When going home, he said to some of his admirers, "Now, lads, don't you say now about this to my missus, or she won't 'gife me no supper."—London Advertiser.

POLITE THOUGH HATLESS.

I am in the habit of wearing a beret. As this form of headgear fits tightly to the head it is almost impossible to remove it in time. It is equally difficult to replace, especially if one's hand is occupied with, say, a stick or an umbrella. To live with the beret on seems scarcely courteous; to touch the forehead with the right hand has a mental air; to make a Fascist salute is un-English. Can any one tell me what to do?—London Times.

PARADE OF 400 'PLANES.

One of the high points of the King's Jubilee Year will be a royal review on a big scale of the Royal Air Force.

All ministry officials and Service officers are discussing the arrangements. One suggestion is that the climax of the review should be a grand "fly-over" on a scale never yet attempted in this country, entraining 400 airplanes, and a "royal salute" with the squadrons flying in formation before the King.

The huzzak formation of aircraft that has yet flown over the British Isles consisted in rather more than one hundred aircraft under the leadership of the late Air Commodore C. R. Smeaton. The flight was made over London some 10 years ago, in size that fleet easily surpassed in numbers the largest enemy formation to appear over English territory during the war.—British Aircraft Society.

TOURIST ADVERTISING

Ceylon is rapidly fading off the tourists' map of the world. There has been in recent months a striking decline of tourist traffic. This is the more remarkable because "the world," as Mr. M. S. Milne remarked on Sunday at Nawara Elyya, "has gone cruising mad." Economic recovery has multiplied tourists and is sending them to the four quarters of the globe. Japan, despite its drawbacks of distance and language, was expecting to receive an unprecedented number of tourists this year. It was thought that the total would exceed 30,000 visitors as against an average of 17,000 or 18,000. The reason for this sudden influx is a lesson which Ceylon may take to heart. The propaganda carried on against Japan's cheap goods is regarded in Japan as the biggest advertisement for the country. Evidently it is better to become even notorious than to remain in respectable obscurity and be ignored.—Times of Ceylon, Colombo.

BETTER TIMES IN N.Z. This year going to be a much better import year than 1933 was, or, indeed, any year since 1920. With imports so drastically reduced stocks of commodities in this country have become depleted, while the small inward flow has effected employment and contributed to the general sluggishness of trade. Its revival can be attributed in part to the need to replenish supplies of overseas commodities. But that need has existed earlier, when trade still remained at a low ebb. It has been started moving again by several conditions which can easily be assessed. A belief that the future will be better than the past can be given some of the credit. A more important factor has undoubtedly been the dissipation of that reticence of uncertainty which restrained importers from operating. The tariff amendments have been made and the exchange policy has been stabilized. Therefore plans can now be formed more confidently than was previously possible.—Auckland News.

"There is But One Leaning Tower of Pisa; One Dionne Family"

The Small St. Marie Star says editorially:

"A woman wrote up the Dionne household for the 10th issue of the Canadian Home Journal, and was apparently much perturbed at the modest furnishings. The large 'bare' living room plainly impressed her, for she lists the stove, table, plain chairs and the few other articles it contained.

To a northerner who knows something of the modest requirements of its pioneer households, the Toronto woman's reaction is interesting. Even where more elaborate furnishings could be afforded, simplicity in rural homes in the north is seldom departed from. That the Dionne family could add something to the living room must be apparent from the fact that a piano is listed in the parlor.

"The settler in the north is used to the simple life. He does not favor cluttering up his home with more furniture than he thinks he needs even when he could afford to do so."

EDITORIAL REPLY.

The Stratford Beacon-Herald replies editorially to a correspondent, a man, who wants to "get a rest from all the fuss over the Dionne babies."

"Well, we remain interested ourselves," says the editor. "One man who returned from a trip to Florida told us the people at the hotel where he was staying asked him about the Dionne children when they found he was from Ontario; there was a letter in yesterday's mail from Washington and at the bottom was the query 'How goes it with the quintuplets?' It's a fact the news about them has been carried pretty much all over the world for the Dionne sisters are the only quintuplets in the world. There is but one leaning tower of Pisa, just one Gibraltar and just one Dionne family."

"We admit we are interested in the Dionne sisters. If we could shove one of them about in a cart we'd gladly do so, or perform any other minor or major service. Not being able to do that we print things in the paper now and then about them, put in their pictures so people can see how they are getting along, and we'll keep on doing it. Much better material we think than a plethora of stories about bad men, bandits, wars, divorces, depressions and so on. Why, just think of it—live at a time and all living and fat as pups! Nothing like it in the world."

Trying Experiments With Strawberries

Quebec—The agricultural districts of the province in general, and the district of Quebec City and the Island of Orleans in particular, are expected to derive considerable benefit from a new co-operative experiment that is being conducted by the Provincial and Dominion departments of agriculture with cold storage garden strawberries.

Some 30,000 pounds of last year's crop of strawberries, which have been kept in cold storage, will be offered for sale on the Montreal market in the near future, and if the experiment proves successful, it is expected between 200,000 and 300,000 pounds of Quebec strawberries will be similarly marketed in the winter of 1936.

It is claimed that, early in the season, long before the province's strawberries are available, a considerable amount of berries are imported from the United States and Ontario and are sold at fairly high prices, but that Quebec cold storage berries, which retain their excellent taste and fine quality, could easily and profitably take their place.

Canada-South Africa Need Fast Shipping

Johannesburg—Need for a direct and speedy shipping service between the Union of South Africa and Canada was emphasized in an interview by J. H. McDonald, New Westminster, B.C. chairman of Canada's first trade mission to South Africa.

"We suggest" he said, "that the two governments should jointly subsidize one of the shipping lines to run a regular and fast service between the Union and Canada. A direct service will enable Union exporters to enjoy some of the preferences which our government extends. Once goods are shipped via the United Kingdom they lose their identity and come under a different tariff."

The Canadian visitors spent a day at Pretoria interviewing members of the South African government. Later they visited Durban and returned to spend two or three weeks in this city. They propose going to Rhodesia to talk Canadian trade in Bulawayo and Salisbury.

"Perfectly safely!" he interrupted her, laughing. "Because I knew when you were gone, knew that you would be quite safe, since Vanderly was there and was looking after you."

"Lester Vanderly?" she ques-

(toned, in amazement. "Why I didn't think you even knew him?"

"And that was something, too, I felt it wisest not to tell you. If you didn't know it, there was no chance of your giving it away, perhaps accidentally. He was there on his own account, playing his own game against the d'Abbatos, but he was watching out for you as well."

"All this," she said, rising suddenly from her seat on the table, doesn't excuse you for going to the bank manager and daring to interfere with my arrangements. And what is worse—she flashed him a defiant glance—"interfering with the course of justice. You can do what you like with my uncle's money; but you've just got to have it, whatever you say."

"What are you going to do?" he demanded.

"Telephone to the bank manager to carry out my instructions—"

"Wait!" he insisted curtly. "Put that thing down, if you don't fill explode in your hand. And listen to me. Have you read that will you're wanting to have substituted for the one by which you inherit?"

"Read it?" she eyed him, puzzled. "No. Why?"

"Better do so!" he suggested, and—to her amazement—produced the document from his pocket. He nodded at her surprise.

"I admit it's irregular for the bank manager to have handed that to me! But—well, there it is! Read it, please! Read—at any rate—the last paragraph."

As a matter of fact, feeling obstinate, she read the whole will through. It was quite short, anyhow. But the last paragraph, unquestionably, was sufficiently startling to cause Sylvia's eyes to open widely, and for her to appreciate John Christopher's wisdom in making her read it.

Robbed of its portentous legal language, the substance of it amounted to this. Old Luke Masingham, always desirous that a marriage should be arranged between John Christopher and her, his niece, had realised that possibly his wish could never be gratified. While not making it, therefore, a condition of inheritance, he stipulated that, if John Christopher married elsewhere, the legacy passed to Sylvia Darnley, his niece.

And now, remembering Stella Darlingford, Sylvia understood John Christopher's refusal to accept the legacy. What, after all, would be the good of him making it, since quite soon now—as she remembered Stella saying in the bank that morning to her woman friend, when showing her engagement ring—they were to be married?

"What right have people to make their wills like this?" Sylvia flamed, embarrassed by this revelation. It ought not to be allowed. Why should my uncle have punished you in this way? It means—"

"That, if I'm really interested in your uncle's money, I must either remain single all my life, or you must be my wife. Fortunate for you, perhaps, that—I don't want the wretched money, and won't have it," shrugged John Christopher.

"I can assure you the feeling's quite mutual about the money!" Sylvia retaliated. "I wish I'd never heard of it, had never left Malchester. I didn't know then how happy I really was."

"Come—come!" he urged on a note of amusement. "Things surely can't be as bad as that, Sylvia? Be honest and admit that you were a long way from happy in Malchester. And now you've known what wealth is, you couldn't go back there. You'll marry—"

"It was almost pathetic," she heard John Christopher saying behind her, "how keen your uncle was on bringing you and me together that way. You know, I can almost see his dieting that will on the table, his last frantic effort to achieve the impossible, his last bulldog bark of disappointment over a bone he could not reach!"

"Why talk about it?" Sylvia shrugged, swinging on him with burning eyes. "It is, as you say, impossible."

"Which reminds me!" she added. "I haven't yet, I know, congratulated you on your engagement to Miss Darlingford. There's been so much happening that I don't seem to have found the chance. I suppose you'll be marrying quite soon now?"

"Quite soon—I hope!" he nodded. "It really depends so much upon you, dear!" Sylvia was amazed to hear John Christopher saying.

"Upon me?" She turned, eyeing him in wonder.

"Well, yes! I shall be married quite soon, if you agree to it!" he was smiling down at her.

"But it's nothing to do with me? Stella Darlingford—"

"Doesn't happen—as you seem to think—to be engaged to me at all, Stella Darlingford—"

He drew her gently but firmly towards one of the open windows which looked on the garden. And there, in the waiting car at a little distance, she saw Stella Darlingford sitting.

Not alone, nor without occupation, either. To Sylvia's astonishment, Lester Vanderly was with her. And the garden being empty, with—as he appeared to believe—no prying eyes to see, Lester Vanderly had his arm round Stella and was kissing her shamelessly, to her obvious pleasure.

"You see?" laughed the voice of John Christopher at Sylvia's side. "Why try to marry poor Stella off to me? She and Lester have known each other quite a while, been in love. He was only waiting to settle with those d'Abbatos people over his college mate's death."

"For myself," John Christopher went on, "I fell in love with you the first time I saw you at Malchester. But—could I admit it, knowing you were an heiress? All

Tea at its Best "SALADA" TEA

I could do was to wait in the background and do what I could to help you. I'm afraid I didn't do much, even then."

"You saved my life, for one thing!" Sylvia reminded him with shining eyes, a pretty colour came suddenly to her face, which now seemed to dazzle in the dawn of amazing hope.

"Would that be an excuse for expecting you to love me as I love you, Sylvia darling? It would be blackmail, wouldn't it?"

"If I didn't happen to love you too, John Christopher!" she murmured, suddenly in his arms and gazing up at him earnestly. "If you only knew how much I did that, how unhappy I've been—"

And then, at last, her lips were given to his. In the cool shade of that room, there was silence, the silence of contentment. Outside, the gaud and glare and bustle of Monte counted for nothing.

Presently, John Christopher laughed down at Sylvia.

"I was right, wasn't I, when I said that the wings of fortune did not always make safe flying?"

"They've brought me to you and you to me," she smiled up at him.

"No!" he whispered. "Those were the wings of love, don't you really think?"

TRY FASTER WAY TO RELIEVE A COLD

Discovery Bringing Almost Instant Relief to Millions

Follow Simple Directions:

When you have a cold, remember the simple treatment pictured here . . . prescribed by doctors as the quick, safe way.

Results are amazing. Ache and distress go immediately. Because of Aspirin's quick-disintegrating property, Aspirin "takes hold"—almost instantly. Your cold is relieved "quick as you caught it!"

All you do is take Aspirin and drink plenty of water. Do this every 2 to 4 hours the first day—less often afterward . . . if throat is sore, the Aspirin gargle will ease it in as little as 2 minutes.

Ask your doctor about this. And be sure you get ASPIRIN when you buy. It is made in Canada and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet. Aspirin is the trade mark of the Bayer Company, Limited.

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

1. Take 2 Aspirin tablets.

2. Drink full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 Aspirin tablets in a third of a glass of water and gargle. This eases the soreness in your throat almost instantly.

TEETH

LIKE A DAGGER IN HER BACK

Fixed With Rheumatism

GREAT BENEFIT FROM KRUSCHEN

A woman correspondent writes— "I was crippled with pains stabbing me like a dagger in the lower part of my back. From there they would go from joint to joint, almost fixing my shoulders so that I could not move my arms up and down for pain. At times I thought I would never rid myself of this terrible agony. I walked the room night after night with no sleep for weeks after week. I tried lotions of all kinds, but got no relief whatever. Then I tried Kruschen Salts, and started straight away with the wonderful results which I am obtaining at this present moment. "No fear of going to bed, not afraid to eat a meal. My food used to nearly choke me. It must have been all acid in my body, which I am very thankful to say is not the case now. I am reaping great benefit from Kruschen, which I take regularly every morning. To me it is worth its weight in gold. It has put new life in me.—(Mrs.) E. P.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are caused by deposits of needle-pointed uric acid crystals in the muscles and joints. The six salts in Kruschen stimulate your liver and kidneys to healthy, regular action; assist them to get rid of the excess uric acid which is the cause of all your suffering. When poisonous uric acid—with its deposits of needle-pointed crystals—goes, there's no doubt about those aches and pains going too! Nor is that all. Kruschen keeps your system so regular, so free from stagnating waste matter, that no such body poisons as uric acid ever get the chance to accumulate again. Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c and 75c per bottle.

Royal Air Force Sets Safety Record

(By the British Aircraft Society.) The Royal Air Force in 1934 set a record which will speak more eloquently of the skill of British aviators and the trustworthiness and efficiency of British aircraft material than the most spectacular flight.

In the year Service airplanes have done more flying than in any previous 12 months since the War, yet the number of serious accidents shows a substantial decline and is better even than in 1921 when the Royal Air Force was about one-third of its present size and flew little more than one-tenth of the distance flown this year.

A conservative estimate shows that R.A.F. machines flew from 1934 about 47,000,000 miles. In 1921 every 2,238 hours' flying was attended by a death; in 1934 the figure has risen to approximately 12,000 hours.

And in '34 the decreased number of fatal accidents goes with an exceptionally good record in other accidents which were not fatal but caused injuries to personnel. For comparison, the French Air Forces flew last year about 38,000,000 miles, employing about twice the number of aircraft flown in the British Service, which returned 44,000,000 miles in 1933; French casualties last year amounted to 45 deaths.

The present figure shows that the 93 squadrons of the R.A.F. have sustained 19 fatal accidents in 1934, involving 28 deaths. Corresponding figures in 1921 were 33 squadrons, 22 fatal accidents, and 37 deaths. That year the Service flew not more than 5,000,000 miles. In the worst year—1926—61 squadrons in all had 54 accidents, involving 85 deaths.

Risks are inseparable from military flying. The Royal Air Force is charged with patrol and policing duties over a million square miles of territory. It flies daily in three continents, much of the time over perilous country where engine failures would mean disaster.

Even in the British Isles, the force gets much bad weathering; it can use no region of sunshine and perfect visibility comparable, for example, with the great state of Texas, where much of United States military flying is done. And this year's record is the more striking in view of the increased flying done in air exercises and manoeuvres that were conducted as far as possible under active service conditions.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT "Acid Indigestion"

The Necessity of Hospitalization In the Early Treatment of Infantile Paralysis

By DR. J. L. McDONALD (Surgical Staff, Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto)

In this War against Disease, the cause or certain conditions still remains unexplained, and one of the most striking examples of this is Infantile Paralysis (Acute Anterior Poliomyelitis). Here we have a disease which appears to be on the increase; and at the present time is responsible for more crippling in childhood than any other. Medical men in various parts of the world have been working feverishly to discover the cause of this condition and to produce some type of prophylactic serum to protect children against it. In this war that is being waged the lives of many brilliant young physicians have been sacrificed, but up to the present the problem still remains unsolved.

We do know, however, that when an individual becomes afflicted with Infantile Paralysis, early in the disease there is a widespread paralysis of muscles, and that as time goes on some degree of recovery occurs in every case which in many instances may be complete. During this period of recovery, it is very important that the paralyzed muscles be protected by splints and that massage be instituted early to keep up the nourishment of the affected limbs. It is during this period that it is imperative that the child be treated in Hospital, because it is almost impossible to obtain as good results if treated in a private home.

The length of time that the child should remain in hospital varies in different cases, but generally speaking it should be long enough to have the patient become thoroughly accustomed to wearing splints and braces and until the case has become one that can be easily handled by the mother at home without taking too much of her time from the other children.

Keeping Them Amused While Convalescing

Children in hospital have a good time. While getting well they do not get bored. A special instructor keeps them occupied with basketry, leather work and carpentry.

Undoubtedly much credit for the improvement must go to improvements in recent years of training methods and to extension of the instructional period. Every Royal Air Force pilot, for example, is trained nowadays in "blind" flying by instruments alone, which makes for safer navigation in fog and cloud. But perhaps even more credit must go to modern British aircraft and aero engines. Engine failure is now a rare occurrence; engines in the service commonly run 400 to 500 hours without overhaul so dependable and troublefree are they. Aircraft frames are not overhauled till they have flown some 1,000 hours.

That is the kind of progress in aeronautical engineering of which one hears all too little, bearing directly on the safety of all kinds of aviation, civil as well as military.

doing a lot of cockeyed things. But his hold on the American people is due to the fact they have confidence in his honesty of purpose.

"He can't answer whether we're going to have inflation or what the dollar's going to be worth. He can't tell. But he's trying hard to do things."

Rogers said he thought he had "got the president off the idea" of appointing any more "guys" to the supreme court.

He also expressed his appreciation of the medal by telling Franklin's home town what he thought of its Sunday "blue laws."

"Philadelphia is a great little town... six days a week, but on Sunday, the best thing you can do is get right out of town," he said, urging Mayor J. Hampton Moore that Sunday moving picture would be a good thing for the city.

Cowboy - Humorist Tells Philadelphia How Things Stand

Philadelphia—The ABC's of the United States have been explained fully to Philadelphians, thanks to Will Rogers.

The cowboy-humorist made everything clear recently at a dinner of the Poor Richard Club, commemorating Benjamin Franklin's 229th birthday, where a medal was pinned on Rogers' blue serge suit, honoring him as "America's ambassador of advertising." The blue suit, he had explained, "doubles" for a tuxedo at formal functions.

Most of his talk concerned President Roosevelt, who he said he had "wiped up" the night previously at Vice President John N. Garner's dinner in Washington.

"You can't meet the president and not love him," Rogers said. "He's Growing Deaf With Head Noises? Try This.

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear catarrhal deafness, or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears, go to your druggist and get 1 oz. of Earmin (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to take. Anyone who is threatened with catarrhal deafness or who has had head noises should give this prescription a trial.

WOMEN'S CHATTER

By Mair M. Morgan

HOME AS A CAREER.

Since the war it has been the fashion for women to speak of their "career." Looking around it is quite apparent that many have succeeded in moulding a place in the business world. Every field has its woman blazing a trail. There is hardly a line of business, art or science into which woman has not poked her impertinent nose.

To many this is a sad thing to behold. After all, marriage in these days is a career demanding every ounce of energy, resourcefulness and cleverness possible. The woman who can bring up a family of boys and girls successfully in these days, and at the same time devote part of her attention to her husband, performs a laudable task. Patience, tact and understanding are constantly demanded. And the woman who has all these and a capacity of throwing her head back and laughing, is a woman who deserves a medal of the highest order.

COURAGE

If you are one of the unfortunates who have a phobia against mice, you will indeed shout "Bravo" to this tale.

A cold and chilly night. Time—Twelve-thirty. Scene—Bedroom. Occupants—1, A sleeping girl. 2. A hungry mouse.

The girl is dreaming pleasant dreams (we hope). The mouse is in search of a nibble of food. He finds a few crumbs.

The girl awakes—a noisy mouse this one. She objects strongly to the fact that the mouse has chosen this particular hour as his dinner time.

He awakens to the fact that she demurs and scurries madly around the room.

Instead of covering under the covers, the girl leaps out of bed, seizes a heavy suitcase and at the strategic moment plunks it on the floor.

Quietness reigns. To the brave—a perfect night's rest and victorious dreams.

I think this girl rates a medal.

STARLING SOUP

Have you starlings in your district? If so, why not try to emulate the example of Frank Mottola of Niagara Falls.

Frank has a home-made trap in his back yard in which so far, he has caught 350 birds. They are made into pies and soup but Frank's family likes the soup best. For example, they enjoyed soup made with 53 birds, some fresh vegetables, onions and a little flavoring.

He has experimented and discovered that the best bait for the birds is cake, apple peelings, bread and meat, but they are not tempted by grain.

Paper Bag is Hiccough Cure

Inhale Carbon Dioxide—Justice Riddell Speaks As An Expert.

Toronto.—From personal experience, as well as knowledge, Justice Riddell knows how to stop hiccoughs. His opinion was asked on a report from Los Angeles, where a doctor cured a case of prolonged hiccoughing by getting the patient to hold his nose and breathe into a paper bag. This was continued until the oxygen in the bag was exhausted and the patient was breathing in carbon dioxide—whereupon his hiccoughing ceased.

"Ask Justice Riddell about it," a doctor told a reporter. "He knows quite a lot about it."

And so he did. "Why," said the learned judge, "I hold the long-distance record for hiccoughing. Four years ago I hiccoughed steadily for eight days and eight nights, and a year ago, when I was again ill with pneumonia, I hiccoughed for 12 days and 12 nights. That's a record."

"And did they stop it with a paper bag?"

"I don't know," he replied. "I was not in a position to know. But I do know that they have adopted that method in all the hospitals in the United States. I learned about it when I was in Boston last summer and it's been taken up all over."

"But I'll tell you this about hiccoughing, the ordinary common-garden hiccough—there's one good way of stopping that. Just imagine that it is something outside of you, that you haven't anything to do with it—and it will stop immediately. I've tried it myself with great success."

But without his knowing it, the paper bag expedient was tried on Justice Riddell.

"Yes, we tried that method on him," Dr. Clark Noble said, "but it didn't work and his hiccoughing stopped of its own accord. The method, however, while it does not work in every case, has been accepted as a worthwhile expedient. The theory is that when the oxygen is exhausted and carbon dioxide is taken in instead, the rate of respiration is increased and the change of rhythm causes the hiccoughing to cease. There's no harm in trying it out."

Young Men Are Too Frivolous

Young men are too frivolous for 21-year-old Dorothy Benneck of Los Angeles, she said recently, and so she plans to marry a man 73 years old.

Miss Benneck and Freeburn Gardner, 73, and retired, a neighbor, have filed notice of intention to wed. "I used to see him working in his garden in the neighborhood and admired his white hair and sturdy figure," she said. "We became friends two years ago, and then friendship became a courtship."

That's Interest

Ottawa.—Positive proof that "the women were interested" in the story of her experiences told at a meeting under his charge by a returned missionary was given by Rev. H. M. Servage, of North Gower, at a recent meeting of the Ottawa Presbytery.

"I know that," he said, "because I watched a mouse come and go and not one of the women saw it."

Job Hunter: Tell me, sir, is there no demand for brains in your business?
Packer: Not much. I don't know how it is. I like 'em scrambled on toast myself.

"There's no place like home."
"That's right. There if you want to dip your toast into your coffee you can without causing any undue comment."

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

Here's the sort of two-piece dress that smart juniors and college girls are planning for "back to school" wear.

The jacket blouse has a most unique sailor collar arrangement that buttons high at the neck at the front. You'll note too, how smartly the partial belt buttons at the back.

A woolen mixture as sketched is excellent for practical wear.

Another nice idea is to make the skirt of plaided angora woolen and the jacket blouse of toning shade velveteen.

Even if it is your first attempt at sewing, you won't experience any difficulty making it—it's so utterly simple, with few major parts.

Style No. 3032 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material.

The simplest form of Rhythm comes by regular repetition of a line or shape. Fig. 147 illustrates the necessity of order and repetition in producing Rhythm. The straight lines and dots and the black squares give no sense of design. The eye finds no orderly way prepared for it through the arrangement. But when the same shapes and lines—equal in number to those in disorder, are placed in order and repetition, we are at once conscious of Rhythm. The designer need be drillmaster, bringing his ideas into discipline and order, making them all work together to carry out the purpose he has in view.

Figs. 148, 149, 150 are illustration of Rhythm by regular repetition, drawn from widely different sources. Fig. 148 is part of the ornamentation of a native Australian shield of carved ironwood. Fig. 149 is from the border of an Oriental rug. Fig. 150 is the well-known Greek egg and dart ornament. These illustrations have one feature in common—regular repetition of similar shapes, and numerous examples might be given from all ages and countries.

At this stage of your Art study is a most excellent time to persevere through magazine and news-papers for practical examples, both Ancient and Modern. Design is one of the most interesting sources of education as well as one which may be applied to every day use. Do not fail to make notes on any clippings of designs which you fly away. These notes made now of your own views as well as other people's views will provide you with a practical store of knowledge which will be ready at hand for your own use when you want it. Thus you will save considerable time in not having to search too far when your time may be very limited, as it so often is if a design has to be prepared in a hurry. For ad-vertisers and editors are in the habit of leaving everything until the last moment and this is where the practical artist proves his worth—by being prepared for all emergencies.

Do not be caught napping or you will be likened unto the athlete in a race, who is left at the starting post just because he was not really read for an emergency start. "Be Prepared," remember this Boy Scout Motto is a good slogan for all people.

Fig. 147 illustrates the necessity of order in rhythm. For your work in EX. NO. 44 make new examples illustrating order in Rhythm.

EX. NO. 42. Originate various examples of Rhythm by repetition as demonstrated in Figs. 148, 149 and 150.

Questions will be answered in this department. Anyone wishing to receive a personal reply may have same if a 3c stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed with the request. The Art Director, Our Sketch Club, Room 425, 73 Adelaide Street, W., Toronto.

Obituary

Mrs. Robert English
 There passed away at her home at Empey Hill on Monday, January 21st, a highly respected resident in the person of Mrs. Robert English. She was the eldest daughter of John Richmond and his wife, Eliza Winters. Born in Richmond township 88 years ago, she had spent all of her life in the township and was a very active member of the Empey Hill United Church.
 She leaves to mourn her loss three daughters, Mrs. Geo Dupre, Mrs. Fred Kimmery and Mrs. Roy McMath.
 The funeral was held from the Empey Hill church on Thursday, January 24th, by her pastor, Dr. W. E. Smith. Interment was made in Riverview Cemetery, Napanee.

Use New Aviation Safety Device

Paris: Gauging an aeroplane's height in fog or at night by measuring echoes is a new safety device of French aviation intended to prevent flying blindly into hillsides or falling into the sea. An instrument, which sounds a musical note for 3-1000 of a second, catches by means of a microphone the echo reflected from the water or ground, automatically measures the distance it travelled and registers it on the aeroplane's instrument board. The device has passed tests of the air ministry.

Ways to Carry Money

Have you ever noticed that people in different lines of business carry their money in different ways? Grocers, butchers and cattle dealers carry their money in wads; bankers in clean bills laid full length in a pocket book; brokers in a single fold (just doubling their money); the young man, in his vest pocket; the farmer, in an inside pocket; while the editor carries many of his dollars in the pockets of his subscribers.—Ex.

Anyone Except Bennett

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)
 Hon Dr. Faulkner, speaking in London, said that if any person except Premier Bennett had introduced the program of reforms he might be inclined to vote for him. But that is not sound argument. If a man's house were cold he would not care much who drove the wagon which brought him fuel.

Small Word Gives Much Trouble

It is stated that in the compilation of the great new Oxford English Dictionary, the word that caused the editors the most trouble was one of three letters, the familiar word "set." It took over 30,000 words to explain and illustrate its many meanings.

The 1934 yield of maple syrup and maple sugar as expressed in pounds of sugar was 23,379,400. The 1933 production was 18,408,000 pounds and the ten-year average 26,816,000 pounds.

ST. GEORGE ST. DESERONTO

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
 IS YOUR LENS CLEAN?

With a clean lens, plus proper exposure, you should always get sharp, clear pictures such as the ones above.

THE Guild has received a number of letters from fellow snapshotters complaining about smudgy looking pictures. They say they know their exposures are correct and developing done carefully with fresh, clean chemicals.

Granting that all this is true the next thing to consider is your lens. Is it clean? You have looked through dirty eye-glasses with probably a few finger prints on them. If you haven't it's a sure bet that you have experienced the difficulty of looking through a smudgy window. Clean eye-glasses and clean windows give clear vision and similarly the camera cannot "see" so well if its eye (the lens) is cloudy and smudgy from grease, finger prints and dust collected over a period of months.

Cleaning a lens is a very simple operation. All you need is a soft, unstarched linen handkerchief and perhaps a match or pencil, if the lens is quite small. The rear surface of the lens can easily be reached by removing the back of the camera. If the camera has a double lens (one behind and one in front of the shutter diaphragm), the front combination may be removed by turning to the left, which will allow you to work through the shutter opening when set for "time," with the handkerchief over the end of the match or lead pencil. If the lens is quite dirty breathe on it and then rub quickly with the handkerchief. Be sure, when replacing the front lens, to screw it back into the shutter as far as it will go.

The suggestion to work through the shutter opening also applies to cleaning the front surface of cameras with single lenses fitted to box cameras and certain folding models. Handle the lens carefully and don't exert too much pressure. It isn't necessary and might scratch the surface.

The amount of pleasure you get out of your camera depends almost entirely on how much thought and care you give it.

Picture taking is just like golf, tennis, basketball or bowling—the more you experiment, the more thought you give to your hobby, the greater your reward in self satisfaction.

There are many good books available on amateur photography but one of the latest of the press is called "How to Take Good Pictures." It is packed with sound advice for the beginner or the advanced amateur and profusely illustrated with pictures of every type, diagrams and what have you. It might be called "The Amateur Photographer's Reference Book," but don't think for one minute it is as "dry" as such a name might imply. You can no doubt purchase this book from stores that sell cameras and photographic supplies.

If you know your camera—its limitations or its versatility—give careful thought to composition and story-telling possibilities you are well along your way to take pictures as interesting and sharp as the two shown above.

Did you ever stop to think
EDSON W. WAITE
Shareholder, CIBC

Sir John Aird, President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, in addressing the bank's shareholders, in part said:

"There is a brighter economic condition in the world today than existed twelve months ago. During the past year grave international and political complications have arisen from time to time, while hasty and faulty monetary experiments were still attempted in the name of reform, but the progress in the field of business during 1934 as a whole was even more impressive than seemed possible when, addressing you two years ago, I first drew attention to constructive elements in the business situation.

"Durable improvement, however, must remain uncertain as long as world trade is fettered by almost every conceivable form of restriction, and continues to be denied one essential for its advancement, an international gold standard, leaving it therefore to struggle against exchange instability and the persistent menace of further enterprise continually gaining over the forces of depression, signs of informal stabilization of currencies and admission on all sides that the limits of nationalistic action to restore prosperity have practically been reached, there is the firm hope that business has at least entered upon a period of progressive improvement.

"It is significant and instructive that the most marked general economic revival of the last two years has been enjoyed by those nations which have suffered least from State intervention. Among the most fortunate countries, indeed, one that is now in the vanguard of the march toward prosperity, is Canada.

Ladies' Aid of United Church

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon in the church parlor. The president, Mrs. P. M. Stover, was in the chair. Mrs. J. B. Hough was absent and Mrs. R. Perry was asked to take the secretary's place. There were twelve members present. Meeting opened by singing Hymn 191, the prayer by Mrs. Hoare. The scripture lesson, Matthew 6 to 15, was read by Mrs. Stover. Reports from the secretary and treasurer were read and approved. Letters of appreciation were received from Mrs. Putman, thanking the aid for flowers. The reports of the various groups were read. Mrs. Stover was re-appointed as the Ladies' Aid representative to the official board. The books were audited by Mrs. A. Waite and Mrs. R. Perry and found correct with a substantial balance to start a new year. Several members paid their dues and the flower collection taken by Miss J. Dryden. Mrs. Waite and Mrs. Matthews kindly contributed a delightful duet accompanied by Miss J. Dryden. The meeting closed by singing hymn 174 and repeating Mizpah Benediction.

Nite Hawk Euchre Club Meet

Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert Sager entertained the nite hawk euchre club at their home on Friday evening. Four table of euchre were played and the ladies' first and second prizes were won by Mrs. R.
